Dear Sara

Of course you are more than welcome to add it to your institutional repository post-print. Once it has appeared you can add the doi.

Kind regards

Ineke

Dear Ineke,

We are very happy that you found our paper interesting and that T&I is going to publish our paper.

If I am not mistaken, T&I allows posting a postprint version of the article in our institutional repository in the meanwhile it is published, isn't it?

Best,

Dear Javier Franco Aixela, Christian and Sara

Thank you again for submitting your paper entitled "Open access in translation studies. A bibliometric overview of its distribution and development" to Translation & Interpreting.

Thank you also for attending to all reviewers' comments and for sending us a succinct overview of your responses and any revisions made.

We are pleased to accept your paper for the next issue of Translation & Interpreting that is edited by Associate Professor Mustapha Taibi and myself, and which is scheduled to appear in the February 2021 issue.

Your submission will now be moved to 'in editing'. This should not affect your access to the paper. We will move on to copy editing in the final months of this year, at which time we will send the paper back to you for your approval.

Kind regards
