1 INTRODUCTION

The Deliverable D1.3 “Project website” releases the RightsApp project website. Additionally, this report contains specific details about the structure, content, design and visitors collected statistics.

Therefore, Section 2 of this report is focused on the different parts of the RightsApp project website: structure in Section 2.1; contents in Section 2.2; design in Section 2.3 that depicts different screenshots from the RightsApp website; and Section 2.4 shows the statistics collected by the project website. Finally, Section 3 summarizes all the contributions of this report and how the website will act as a tool for the project dissemination among the targeted users.

2 PROJECT WEBSITE

The project website is hosted at the UAB facilities and can be accessed through: <http://rightsapp-project.eu>.

2.1 Structure

Figure 1 shows the structure of the RightsApp website. The website structure is divided in five major parts: “Home”, “News”, “Events”, “Project structure” and “Dissemination”. “Project structure” and “Dissemination” have two additional subparts, which provide in-depth information: “Consortium” and “Deliverables”, and “Publications” and “Identity set”, respectively. Subparts are depicted in Figure 1 with fine dashed boxes. Moreover, at the bottom of each page appears a footer that contains: (i) the funding message and the website’s legal notice; (ii) the five most recent tweets from the RightsApp twitter account; (iii) the coordinator contact details; and (iv) the privacy and cookies policy that applies to the RightsApp website.

2.2 Content

Home

The project website is the main online representation of the RightsApp project, thus the "Home" section, as a landing page, is intended to allow a quick overview on the project objectives, structure, stages of the project and the consortium members.

News

The "News" section highlights the news of the RightsApp project. It will show results, achievements, events attended or organized (conferences, workshops, tutorials, working meetings, among others), availability of public deliverables from the project and networking achievements. Additionally, this section also includes a search tool and the archive of past news.

Events

The "Events" section is mainly focused on the events organized by the RightsApp project. (workshops, working meetings, tutorials, infodays, among others).

Project structure

The "Project structure" section consists of two subsections which provide in-depth information about consortium and scheduled deliverables. The "Consortium" subsection contains the description of the consortium: the role of each member in the project, their logos and their expertise.

The "Deliverables" section shows one table for each Work Package planned in project. Every table includes: the scheduled deliverables (name and expected due date) and, if publicly available, a link to download the PDF document from the RightsApp Zenodo Community (see D1.1 "Data Management Plan" for further information about the RightsApp Zenodo Community).

Dissemination

The "Dissemination" section consists of two subsections which provide in-depth information about the publications and identity set elements related to the project. The "Publications" subsection contains all the publications generated by the consortium, including conference papers, journal articles, public deliverables, among others. At the moment of writing of this report, the "Publications" subsection only includes one public deliverable, during the course of the project this page will be continuously filled according to the results and achievements reached by the RightsApp project.

The "Identity set" subsection includes all the elements for the dissemination of the RightsApp project. At the moment of writing this report it contains the name, programme and funding information about the project and it also includes sections for the forthcoming poster and leaflet that will be delivered at Month 10 (December 2018). However, during the project this page will be continuously filled according to the dissemination needs of the RightsApp project.

Footer

The Footer section is included in all pages contained in the RightsApp website. It includes the funding message, following instructions from Article 22.1.2 on "Information on EU funding — Obligation and right to use the EU emblem" in the GA. Additionally, the "Footer" section also includes the "Legal notice" (see Annex II) for the RightsApp website; the most recent tweets from the RightsApp twitter account; and the coordinator contact details. Finally, at the bottom of the section the "Privacy and cookies policy" information is displayed (see Annex I).

2.3 Design

2.4 Statistics

The generation of the anonymous statistics about the usage of the RightsApp project’s website will be performed by Google Analytics. Thus, the Google Analytics code to gather these anonymous statistics have been included in the project website. Figure 7 depicts the dashboard that includes the number of users and visits, when and where occur the most part of the visits, which device is the most common and which pages are the most visited. These anonymous statistics will help to tune up the website to maximize the dissemination to the targeted groups.

3 SUMMARY

This report shows the structure, content, design and collected statistics of the RightsApp project’s website, which is accessible through <http://rightsapp-project.eu>. The idea behind this website is to raise a dynamic tool, where researchers, experts, stakeholders and interested EU citizens can find relevant information about the project. Moreover, the website is also the main online representation of the RightsApp project, jointly with the social media channels that will be set up all along the project. At the moment of writing this report, only the Twitter channel is working. At a later stage, Facebook and LinkedIn accounts will also be set up. In addition, the consortium will be continuously evaluating if other social media channels might also benefit the dissemination and promoting of the project.

Currently, the website consists of five sections: “Home”, “News”, “Events”, “Project structure” and “Dissemination”. These five sections have been described in the previous sections of this report. Additionally, subsections, design, legal notice, privacy and cookies policy and contact details have been also discussed.
