Shaping Our Future
Since 1886, our associates have been defined by an ability to win the hearts and minds of those we refresh with our beverages. Today, the men and women of The Coca-Cola Company are shaping the future with a plan to drive sustainable growth and create enduring value for you. As they do, they’re inspired by the extraordinary potential of the nonalcoholic beverage industry and the promise of refreshing a growing world. Our associates are the faces you see inside this report.
Dear Fellow Shareowners,

Tomorrow morning, about 2 billion households will wake up around the world, all of them thirsty and eager for refreshment. On average, each of these families will consume 26 drink servings throughout the day. And beverages of The Coca-Cola Company will account for about one and a half of those 26 servings.

That’s just one reason we believe in our growth potential. But we’re also keenly aware that we’re entitled to nothing. And the plain and simple truth is that capturing this opportunity for you and our Company will require us to perform at a higher level than we did in 2014.

Globally, families and individuals spent less on consumer goods in 2014, slowing growth in nonalcoholic beverages. And this had an impact on our performance.

Overall, The Coca-Cola Company gained global value share in our industry in 2014, increasing our share of the total amount spent by consumers on nonalcoholic beverages. On a structurally adjusted comparable currency neutral basis, we increased net revenues 3 percent and operating income 6 percent.1 We also grew unit case volume 2 percent. However, we were not satisfied with these numbers, even in a challenging year.

At the same time, we refused to let tough conditions determine our overall performance or set the course for our future. We knew we needed to move faster and execute faster, and we believed we could improve with the right changes. So we took action to reshape our organization and make the investments needed to return to our long-term growth targets.

While this transformation began early in 2014, we later accelerated the pace and broadened the scope of change. In October, we announced five strategic actions to put our business on the path to stronger growth.

First, we are making targeted, disciplined investments in our brands and our future. In 2014, this meant ramping up our spending to build our brands—including a double-digit increase in media spend—and focusing on our strongest, most promising opportunities.

We also announced strategic investments in Keurig Green Mountain, Inc. and Monster Beverage Corporation and expanded our venture with Select Milk Producers, Inc. With the first, we’re developing Keurig Kold,2 a revolutionary new pod-based system that will enable people to produce Coca-Cola and many of our other delicious beverages at home, starting in late 2015. Meanwhile, our expanded partnership with Monster will strengthen our position in the fast-growing energy drinks category. And we introduced fairlife\(^3\) ultra-filtered milk in select U.S. cities, preparing for a national rollout of the value-added dairy brand in early 2015.

Second, we brought an added emphasis to revenue and profit growth, starting with more distinct and clearly segmented roles for our markets. In emerging markets, we’re striving to grow mostly via greater volume to drive awareness and build our brands. In developing markets, we know ideal growth takes a balance of volume and pricing. In developed markets, we see price/mix as our most powerful growth lever. As part of our focus, we announced that revenue growth would be added as a metric in the Company’s incentive plans starting in 2015.

Third, we began to refocus on our core business model of building brands and leading an unmatched global system of bottling partners. For 2014, this meant accelerating the refranchising process in North America—transferring ownership of Company-owned bottling territories back into the hands of independent operators. By year-end, we had moved about 5 percent of U.S. bottler-delivered volume to new and existing bottling partners. We expect this pace to double in 2015 and double again in 2016.

In addition, we worked with bottling partners in key markets to position our system for more robust future growth. For 2014, this included announcing a significant new investment in Coca-Cola Amatil Indonesia as well as the formation of a next-generation operating model with Coca-Cola Beverages Africa. Both of these vibrant and populous markets will help fuel our growth.

Fourth, we aggressively stepped up our productivity efforts. While we had already announced a plan to deliver cost savings to invest in our brands and business, we took action in 2014 to increase this to $3 billion in incremental annualized savings by 2019.

About half of these savings will come from being more efficient in the way we make and distribute our beverages. Roughly a third will come from reducing operating expenses. The rest will come from marketing, where we’ve designed more effective and efficient global campaigns.

Fifth, we began streamlining and simplifying our operating model. This includes reducing the size of our group-level organizations around the world, standardizing our operating approach and key processes across business units and forming a single business unit in Western Europe, where we previously had three.

Overall, these steps will allow us to speed decision making and enhance our local market focus—both of which will help unlock growth. We’ll also have a more nimble organization, one better equipped to outpace the change in our industry.

Why are we taking these five strategic actions? Because we’re confident we can do more to help our Company capture a larger share of the growth across the nonalcoholic beverage industry.

Fact is, we’re competing in a historically strong and growing marketplace, one with enduring vibrancy and promise. Since 2009, the retail value of our industry—the total amount people spend on nonalcoholic beverages worldwide—has grown by nearly $200 billion. And the industry is projected to grow by another $300 billion between now and 2020.

Because of these and other decisive actions, our people delivered a number of big wins in 2014:

- We led the most extensive global marketing activation in our history in support of the 2014 FIFA World Cup Brazil, inspiring fans across 175 markets, presenting a trophy tour that visited 90 nations and connecting with shoppers through displays in more than 400,000 outlets.

- We introduced “Share a Coke” in additional markets including North America, delighting consumers and creating new brand love for Coca-Cola, Diet Coke and Coke Zero. Our fans showed their creativity on social media, using “Share a Coke” to make a uniquely refreshing marriage proposal and share news of an expected child.

- We rolled out Coca-Cola Life—a reduced-calorie cola sweetened with cane sugar and stevia leaf extract—in Great Britain, Mexico, the United States and other markets, building on our commitment to offer people a cola for every lifestyle and occasion. (Coca-Cola Life debuted in Argentina and Chile in 2013.)

• We shepherded three additional brands to billion-dollar status, bringing the total number to 20. The newcomers are FUZE TEA, a popular mainstream tea sold outside of North America; Gold Peak, a premium tea brand in the United States; and I LOHAS, a breakthrough water brand in Japan that returned to billion-dollar status.

• We created new value with Coca-Cola Freestyle as the fountain-of-the-future added more customer locations. We gained valuable brand insights with daily feedback from each unit, and we introduced three smaller versions of the dispenser to meet the needs of lower volume accounts.

• We sold more PlantBottle packages than ever in 2014—about 9 billion of the 30 billion made since the technology debuted in 2009. The world’s first fully recyclable drink bottle made partially from plants, PlantBottle was honored at the 2014 Sustainable Bio Awards in Amsterdam.

• We gained ground toward achieving our top sustainability goals in Women, Water and Well-Being. By year-end, we had helped economically empower more than 865,000 women through 5by20, our initiative to enable 5 million female entrepreneurs by 2020. We continued to advance our work in water replenishment around the world, including the expansion of our Replenish Africa Initiative to provide 6 million Africans with safe water access by 2020. We also introduced more than 100 reduced-, low- or no-calorie beverages while continuing to increase the availability of smaller bottles and cans.

• We connected with people and shared our stories through Coca-Cola Journey, our innovative online magazine. In 2014, the site attracted 1.4 million monthly visitors and won multiple honors and awards.

Today, we continue to see a beverage industry brimming with opportunity. This optimism is rooted in a host of demographic trends, including intensifying urbanization, a growing global middle class and a massive youth bulge in the developing world. Over the long term, we expect industry value growth to be in the mid single digits.
For our part, The Coca-Cola Company is positioned to grow ahead of our industry with our 20 billion-dollar brands—and more on the way. With our strong global system, we serve more than 23 million customer outlets a week. We’re number one in sparkling beverages, still beverages and our industry as a whole. And we’re number one in 25 of our top 32 markets.

And consider this—for the future, we see beverage brands being built in three ways: (1) as ready-to-drink beverages bought from store shelves, (2) as fountain drinks poured in restaurants and other outlets and (3) as beverages made at home. We intend to rigorously connect these three opportunities as we innovate and leverage technology to increase consumption occasions for our brands.

In each case, Coca-Cola is operating from a position of strength, with our vast global retail footprint, the power of Coca-Cola Freestyle and our dynamic new partnership with Keurig Green Mountain.

For 2015, we’ll continue to move forward with a strong focus on accelerating growth. We’ll make more tactical and strategic choices to strengthen the world’s leading beverage company, system and brand portfolio. And we’ll celebrate the specialness of Coca-Cola as we mark the 100th anniversary of that unmistakable icon of refreshment—the Coca-Cola Contour Bottle.

Thank you for your interest and your investment in The Coca-Cola Company. We have an exceptional team that’s getting up every day with a passionate commitment to our mission of refreshing the world, inspiring moments of optimism and happiness, creating value and making a difference.

I’m honored to work with these extraordinary men and women of the Coca-Cola system, and we are all honored to work for you, our shareowners.
Thank you for your interest and your investment in The Coca-Cola Company.

Very best wishes,

Muhtar Kent

All around the world we are working every minute of every day to refresh, renew and reshape our business.

Let’s get to work.
Our way forward. In 2014, we began organizing our business to drive stronger growth while moving us closer to a rapidly changing beverage landscape and the needs of our consumers and retail customers.

This work was designed not as a temporary, one-time initiative but as a new and ongoing way of doing business in an environment that’s continuously evolving. At the heart of this work is a drive to streamline our operating structure to be faster and better, with associates more empowered to make critical decisions and take action.

At the same time, we committed to generate more productivity across our enterprise while increasing investments in our brands, starting with Coca-Cola. With all the work we do, we’re highly focused on increasing revenue, growing value ahead of our industry and strengthening our position as the world’s leading beverage system.

We’ve been making mornings great for decades. From Minute Maid—a part of our Company for more than 50 years—to Georgia coffee. From Simply Orange to glacéau vitaminwater. From Odwalla to Del Valle. We’re always looking for new ways to help people start their day refreshed. In 2014, Coca-Cola invested in Keurig Green Mountain and introduced fairlife ultra-filtered milk in the United States, creating exciting new beverage opportunities for individuals and families.

Jump Start
Keurig Green Mountain brought innovation to a centuries-old process. That’s the kind of partner we like.

Every day. Everywhere. Imagine an industry with the reach, products, occasions and affordability to touch almost every person in the world.

The nonalcoholic beverage business is such an industry. And we feel privileged to lead an industry that continues to grow, innovate, change and provide increasing economic, social and environmentally responsible value to individuals, families and communities in every corner of the globe.

By 2020, the total retail value of our industry is expected to reach approximately $1.2 trillion, up from approximately $700 billion in 2009. As our industry grows, so does our responsibility to help protect the resources and people who are so vital to our collective future. We believe our continued sustainability focus on Women, Water and Well-Being is right for our Company—and right for our times.
By 2020, two-thirds of the world’s middle class will reside in emerging and developing nations.

Lunch with Friends
How could lunch with a friend possibly get better? With your name—and your friend’s name—right on an ice-cold Coke!

Never satisfied. We choose to be “constructively discontent.” We’re always looking for ways to serve customers and consumers better. And we’re doing so with new products, great marketing and innovative partnerships.
We’re a growth business in a growth industry. We proved it again in 2014 with the addition of three more billion-dollar brands: FUZE TEA around the world; Gold Peak tea in the United States; and I LOHAS water in Japan. We’re always looking for what’s next. In 2014, we announced a strategic investment in Monster Beverage Corporation. It’s a partnership that will strengthen our position in the fast-growing energy drinks category. And our history of great marketing continued, with the remarkable success of the “Share a Coke” campaign.
Thirsty for more. With nearly 250 bottling partners, the Coca-Cola system makes and distributes over 500 brands and more than 3,600 products, including more than 1,000 reduced-, low- and no-calorie beverages.
As the world’s largest beverage system, we service more than 23 million customer outlets, from mom-and-pop restaurants to neighborhood stores to the world’s largest retailers. Every day, more than 700,000 Coca-Cola system associates are working to ensure that our beverages are within an “arm’s reach of desire”—with the right brands, the right package sizes and the right prices in the right retail channels for our shoppers and consumers. Ours is a local business, with our beverages bottled, distributed and sold in the communities we serve. And this gives us unique local insights into customs, tastes, preferences and trends, and embeds us into the fabric of the community.

Top 5
The Coca-Cola Company’s top five markets in terms of unit case volume are the United States, Mexico, China, Brazil and Japan.
It’s an on-demand world. Today’s consumers want what they want, when they want it. One-size-fits-all? That’s a thing of the past. Now, it’s about fitting into every lifestyle and occasion, all around the world. No one can do that like Coca-Cola.
For decades, we sold one extraordinary beverage. Today, Coca-Cola remains the foundation of our business while the Coca-Cola trademark includes a portfolio of singularly delicious beverages, from Coke Zero to Diet Coke to reduced-calorie Coca-Cola Life, sweetened with cane sugar and stevia leaf extract. There’s enduring magic in the icon of our Company. In 2014, we worked to rekindle consumers’ romance with Coca-Cola, from our “Share a Coke” program to increased availability of classic glass bottles.
Coming together. Coca-Cola associates are your neighbors, friends, family and the folks you see throughout your community. They’re people just like you, doing extraordinary things every day.

From sales and service providers, drivers and merchandisers to brand managers, technical experts, marketers and more, the people of Coca-Cola are united in their passion for refreshing others, providing simple moments of happiness, building the world’s greatest brands and ensuring that your investment in our business continues to deliver enduring value for you and your family. In 2014, our people went above and beyond, staying focused on the job at hand while showing great flexibility as we began organizing our business for more robust long-term growth. The Coca-Cola Company’s 2014 Annual Review is dedicated to all our people—past and present—who’ve made our brands and business what they are today.

The Coca-Cola System

We are a global business that operates on a local scale in every community where we do business. We are able to create global reach with local resources because of the strength of the Coca-Cola system, which comprises our Company and our bottling partners—nearly 250 worldwide.

The Coca-Cola system is not a single entity from a legal or managerial perspective, and the Company does not own or control most of our bottling partners.

Our Company sources ingredients; manufactures and sells concentrates, beverage bases and syrups to our bottling operations; owns the brands; and is responsible for consumer brand marketing initiatives. Our bottling partners and some Company operations manufacture, package, merchandise and distribute the finished branded beverages to our customers and vending partners, who then sell our products to consumers.

Our bottling partners work closely with customers—grocery stores, restaurants, street vendors, convenience stores, movie theaters and amusement parks, among many others—to execute localized strategies developed in partnership with our Company. Through effective collaboration, we are able to sell our products to consumers at a rate of 1.9 billion servings a day.

In Memoriam. Donald R. Keough (1926–2015) was the quintessential Coca-Cola ambassador to the world. A former Company president and longtime Board member, he helped our business grow and create value for more than 60 years. We will never forget Don or the love he had for our people, our values, our brands and everyone who enjoyed them.

Shareowner Information

Board of Directors
Our Board of Directors is elected by the shareowners to oversee their interest in the long-term health and overall success of the Company and its financial strength. The Board serves as the ultimate decision-making body of the Company, except for those matters reserved to or shared with the shareowners. The Board selects and oversees members of senior management, who are charged by the Board with conducting the business of the Company. As of April 1, 2015, the Board was comprised of 17 Directors, 16 of whom are not employees of the Company. For more information on our Board, visit our Company website at www.coca-cola.com/our-company/board-of-directors.

Corporate Governance
The Company is committed to good corporate governance, which promotes the long-term interests of shareowners, strengthens Board and management accountability and helps build public trust in the Company. The Board of Directors has established Corporate Governance Guidelines, which provide a framework for the effective governance of the Company. For more information about the Company’s Corporate Governance Guidelines and other corporate governance materials, visit our Company website at www.coca-cola.com/investors/corporate-governance.

Common Stock
The Coca-Cola Company common stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange, traded under the ticker symbol KO. The Company has been one of the 30 companies in the Dow Jones Industrial Average since 1987. As of December 31, 2014, there were approximately 4.4 billion shares outstanding and 233,416 shareowners of record.

Dividends
At its February 2015 meeting, the Board of Directors increased our quarterly dividend 8 percent to $0.33 per share, equivalent to an annual dividend of $1.32 per share. The Company has increased dividends in each of the last 53 years. Dividends are normally paid four times a year, usually in April, July, October and December. The Company has paid 375 consecutive dividends, beginning in 1920.

Reconciliation of GAAP and Non-GAAP Financial Measures

The Company reports its financial results in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States (“GAAP” or referred to herein as “reported”). However, management believes that certain non-GAAP financial measures provide users with additional meaningful financial information that should be considered when assessing our ongoing performance. Management also uses these non-GAAP financial measures in making financial, operating and planning decisions and in evaluating the Company’s performance. Non-GAAP financial measures should be viewed in addition to, and not as an alternative for, the Company’s reported results prepared in accordance with GAAP. Our non-GAAP financial information does not represent a comprehensive basis of accounting.

For additional details regarding the reconciliation of GAAP and non-GAAP financial measures below, see the Company’s Current Reports on Form 8-K filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) on February 10, 2015 and February 18, 2014. This information is also available in the “Investors” section of the Company’s website, www.coca-colacompany.com.

Forward-Looking Statements, Environmental Statement, Equal Opportunity Policy and Scope of the Annual Review

Forward-Looking Statements
This report may contain statements, estimates or projections that constitute “forward-looking statements” as defined under U.S. federal securities laws. Generally, the words “believe,” “expect,” “intend,” “estimate,” “anticipate,” “project,” “will” and similar expressions identify forward-looking statements, which generally are not historical in nature. Forward-looking statements are subject to certain risks and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from The Coca-Cola Company’s historical experience and our present expectations or projections. These risks include, but are not limited to, obesity concerns; water scarcity and poor quality; evolving consumer preferences; increased competition and capabilities in the marketplace; changes in quality and quality and quality and quality of food products and decreased agricultural productivity; changes in the retail landscape or the loss of key retail or foodservice customers; an inability to successfully integrate and manage our Company-owned or -controlled bottling operations; global or regional catastrophic events; and other risks discussed in our Company’s filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Equal Opportunity Policy
The Coca-Cola Company values all employees and the contributions they make. Consistent with this value, the Company reaffirms its long-standing commitment to equal opportunity and affirmative action in employment, which are integral parts of our corporate environment. The Company strives to create an inclusive work environment free of discrimination and physical or verbal harassment with respect to race, sex, color, national origin, religion, age, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity and/or expression, genetic information or veteran status. We will make reasonable accommodations in the employment of qualified individuals with disabilities, for religious beliefs and whenever else appropriate. The Company maintains equal employment opportunity functions to ensure adherence to all laws and regulations, and to Company policy in the areas of equal employment opportunity and affirmative action. All managers are expected to implement and enforce the Company policy of nondiscrimination, equal employment opportunity and affirmative action, as well as to prevent acts of harassment within their assigned area of responsibility. Further, it is part of every individual’s responsibility to maintain a work environment that reflects the spirit of equal opportunity and prohibits harassment.

Scope of the Annual Review
Except as otherwise noted, this Annual Review covers the 2014 performance of The Coca-Cola Company and the Coca-Cola system (our Company and our bottling partners), as applicable. Therefore, references to “currently,” “to date” or similar expressions reflect information as of December 31, 2014. Certain information in the Annual Review regarding the Company and the Coca-Cola system comes from third-party sources and operations outside of our control. We believe such information has been accurately collected and reported, and that the underlying methodology is sound.

EarthColor Inc. printed this report using 100 percent renewable wind power and following sustainable manufacturing principles, including socially responsible procurement, lean manufacturing, green chemistry principles and the recycling of residual materials, as well as reduced volatile organic compound (VOC) inks and coatings. In addition, carbon and VOC reduction strategies were employed to destroy residual VOCs via bio-oxidation. Offsets were purchased where carbon could not be eliminated to render this report carbon-managed and climate-balanced. The environmental impact of this report was a main consideration from the inception of the project, which is the result of a collaborative effort of The Coca-Cola Company and its supply chain partners with the highest regard for the planet and its ecosystems. Care was taken to use environmentally sustainable products and to follow socially responsible manufacturing processes to ensure a minimized environmental impact. This report is printed on Mohawk Options PC 100, which is manufactured using 100 percent renewable wind energy, composed of 100 percent recycled content.

Environmental impact estimated savings related to this report:
- 0.16 acres preserved via sustainable forestry; 133 trees preserved for the future
- 60 million BTUs energy not consumed
- 30,301 pounds net greenhouse gases prevented
- 62,379 gallons water saved

Savings baselines were developed using calculations via EarthColor Printings Supply Chain Calculator.
