01

Goals for the co-creation of knowledge

GOALS for the co-creation of knowledge

Initial formulation by the Council

Dissemination and awareness raising among youth groups to involve youngsters into a sensitization process to identify and notify situations / experiences, either individual or collective, of discrimination in the city.

Data collecting and monitoring of discrimination(s) taking place on the way to creating an Observatory for Non-Discrimination in Terrassa.

02

Methodological Approach

Interdisciplinarity

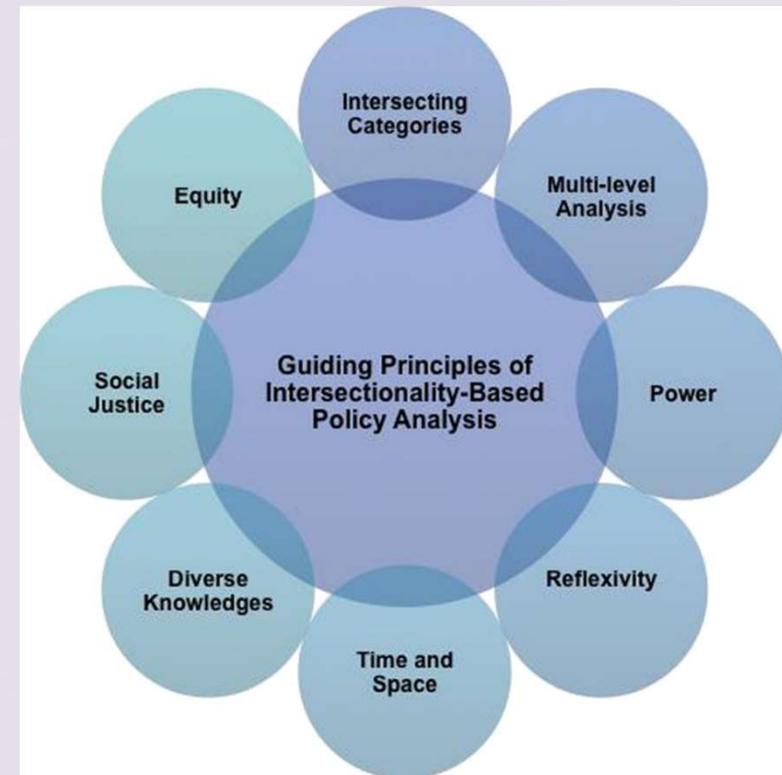

Gendered approach as a common ground

situated analysis of the state of affairs

similar material life conditions

social, cultural, economic inequalities

articulation in intersectional terms different axes of discrimination (age, class, space)

relief maps

A new digital tool has been recently developed by a group of Catalan researchers at the UPF for the study and visualization of social inequalities according to three dimensions: social, geographical, and psychological.

This perspective adds complexity to the methodological approach by relating as factors of inequality places in daily life and emotions.

Taking action

- intersectionality experts (Júlia Pascual Bordas, PhD at UPF)
- public policy analysts (Sara Cuentas Ramírez, Technician at the Centre of Resources in Human Rights at the Observatory for Non-Discrimination by the Barcelona City Council)
- public policy makers (Eunice Romero, Director General of Migrations, Refuge and Anti-Racism at the Equity Department at the Generalitat de Catalunya)
- public youth policy officers (Casa Baumann, Youth Services Headquarters in the city of Terrassa)
- independent entities granting institutional / social justice:
 - Ombudsman of the city of Terrassa
 - Col·lectiu Punt 6

The Team met also with a few young women in La Caseta, Can Parellada, and with the social workers appointed there.
