ICML 2009

Open Medical Library

Cooperation and Scientific Communication Network through RSS

Brisbane, 3th Sept. 2009

Presenting author: Àngels Carles-Pomar

Four Institutions

Two Countries Four Locations

Three Languages

Spanish

Catalan

Portuguese

Common Interests for new Opportunities

Information

User's support

Collaborative work

• Web 2.0

Web 2.0 Tools (1)

Content Syndication RSS:

Well informed user's

Updated information and latest news

Share information

Make new information resources

Web 2.0 Tools (2)

Content Syndication RSS:

Faciliting the creation of virtual spaces of professional cooperation and collaborative work

Participants have access and create information

Easy to use and fast

Open Medical Library (1)

 Flexible and adaptative project promoted by the community of participants

Support to higher education

Research and clinical practice

Tool for the professionals working at libraries

Open Medical Library (2)

- Virtual space, private and for common use
- Multilingual

- For share our knowledgment and resources
- For create new materials and services for users

Open Medical Library (3)

- Public virtual space with information for students, teachers, doctors, etc.
- News about new tools
- Alerts
- Online references
- Social networks (Facebook, Twitter...)
- Podcast
- Photographs

Open Medical Library (4)

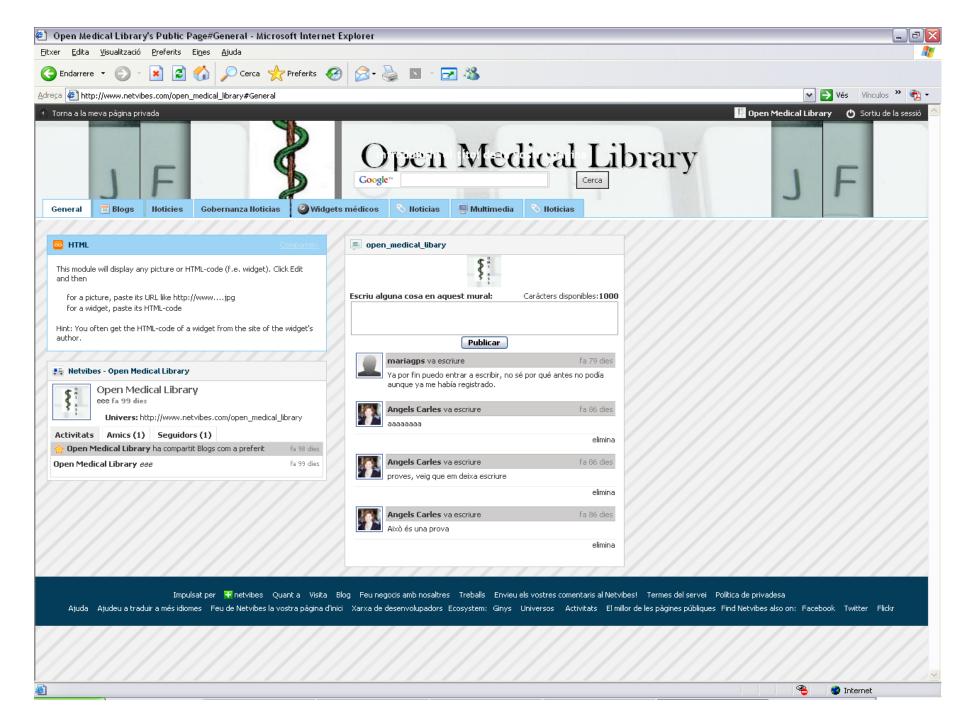

Common virtual work space should have:

Flexibility
Virtual community
Efficiency

• The platform chosen was Netvibes

Why Netvibes?

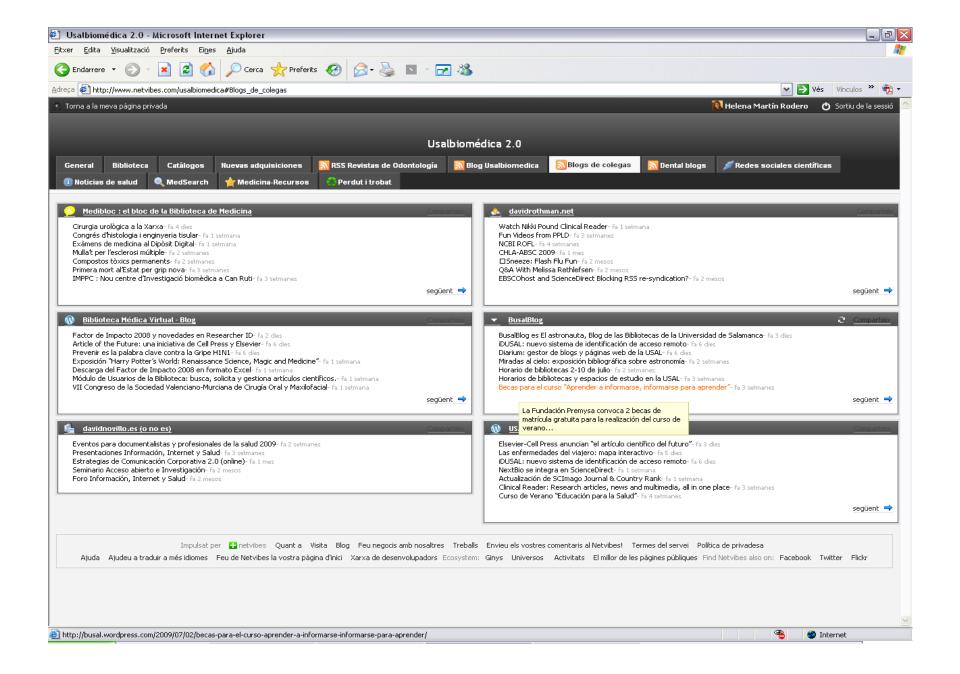

- All applications of Web 2.0 in just one page like a virtual desktop
- Easily to integrate different applications or gadgets
- Offers the possibility to create two platforms, common and private
- Contein various services (photos, videos, podcasts, blogs, etc.

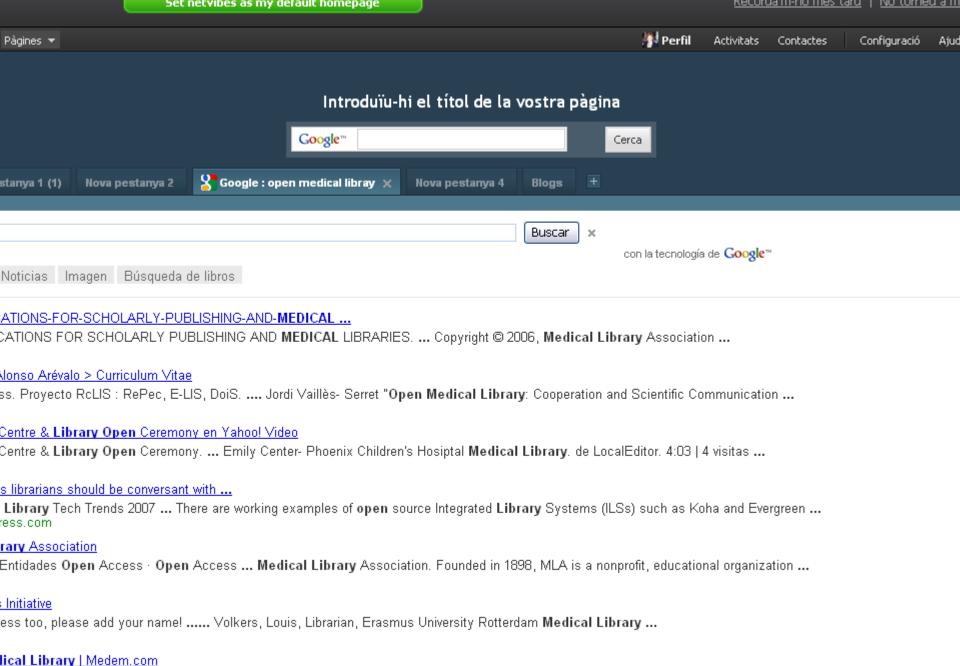

r-friendly format. Low Testosterone and Men's Health ... Be open with your doctor about your medical history, all prescription and ...

ive » Indicadores de uso y Onen Access

Thank You Very Much

