Objectives and Contextualisation

This course introduces Economics and Business Administration students into a sociological perspective, its main features and its basic conceptual and theoretical tools, with the objective of facilitating a reflection on the social condition of human beings and an understanding of social phenomena and of the dynamics of permanence and change.

Skills

Business Administration and Management

- Capacity for independent learning in the future, gaining more profound knowledge of previous areas or learning new topics.
- Capacity for oral and written communication in Catalan, Spanish and English, which enables synthesis and oral and written presentation of the work carried out.
- Demonstrate initiative and work individually when the situation requires it.
- Demonstrate knowledge of the structure of institutions and the state, their evolution and the consequences of possible changes, to be able to make a positive contribution to the debate about the role they play in current society.
- Identify improvements in the internal management process to stimulate company productivity.

- Identify the economic agents that make up an economy, understanding how they have been interrelated to date, how they are currently interrelated and forecast futures according to new circumstances and their influence on a specific company.
- Select and generate the information necessary for each problem, analyse it and take decisions based on that information.
- Show motivation for carrying out quality work and sensitivity to the consequences for the environment and society.
- Value ethical commitment in professional practice.
- Work well in a team, being able to argue proposals and validate or reject the arguments of others in a reasoned manner.

Evaluation

The module will be assessed as follows:

1. Oral presentation to students (in small groups) of a text or audiovisual material. The organization, functioning and assessment criteria will be explained in the lectures and publicized through the virtual campus. Individual/ group work. 10% of the final mark.

2. Writing of one original essay based on a chosen reading from a proposed list which will be provided in due course. The organization, working and assessment criteria will be explained in the lectures and disseminated through the virtual campus. Individual. 30% of the final mark.

3. Written examination. A written exam will take place at the end of the course. Only a mark above 4 will be averaged with other assessed work. Individual. 60% of the final mark.

Please consider the following:

a) The good running of the course will depend on students presenting their work and delivering their essays on the set date.

b) The nature of the module and the method of assessment make regular attendance to lectures and seminars essential. Each lecturer will explain how attendance records are kept and the penalties for unjustified lack of attendance.

c) It is a requirement that students keep a copy of submitted work.

d) In order to be evaluated it is necessary to participate in the three modes of assessment. A qualification of 'No available' indicates that the student has not participated in some or none of the three forms of assessment.

e) Students who obtain grades equal or higher than 4 and below 5 are entitled to an additional evaluation in order to pass (with a maximum mark of 5), to take place shortly after the publication of marks.

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is using the work of others as if it were your own. All written work must be your own work. You must not copy from other students, or from the published (or unpublished) work of others. Whenever you make use of books, articles, internet or other source material, you must make this clear by the appropriate use of references and, where a passage is cited word for word, by the use of quotation marks. Plagiarism is a serious offence and is regarded in the same light as cheating in examinations. It will result in a mark of 0 and lead to failure of the whole module.
