Prerequisites

To have passed the practice module.

Objectives and Contextualisation

The module structure is common to all specialties, although its content and development is related to the module each specialty practices.

The Final Master Project (TFM) is a work of inquiry in the classroom or deepening and theoretical reflection, and is conceived as a learning activity. Its main objective is to evaluate the integration of skills acquired in the Master. It is established as a research or study of empirical data from the experimentation of the training or the counselling intervention during the period of the practice teaching unit. The student develops individually, presents and defends the investigation in front of the tribunal.

TFM development is based on the tutorial. In the course schedule dates of mandatory tutoring for monitoring the work are set.

The TFM (6 cr.) Is performed after the practicum and only if it has been exceeded.

Content

The student must prepare a work of reflection and / or final educational research and will make an oral public presentation in front of a tribunal. Both, the written TFM and its presentation aim to show that they have acquired the skills set of the Master necessary for teaching and performing in the specialty studied in a Secondary School or Official Language School.
