Prerequisites

The course requires an initial level of English C1 (Common European Framework of Reference for Languages: Learning, Teaching, Assessment). Students with C1 can understand a wide range of demanding, longer texts, and recognise implicit meaning; they can express themselves fluently and spontaneously without much obvious searching for expressions; they can use language flexibly and effectively for social, academic and professional purposes; they can produce clear, well-structured, detailed text on complex subjects, showing controlled use of organisational patterns, connectors and cohesive devices.

Objectives and Contextualisation

The main aim of this module is to introduce students to the key concepts of instructed second language acquisition which are applicable to English language teaching methodologies and the use of new technologies.

The most relevant present-day teaching models will be analysed taking into account individual differences in language learning (including gender, age or aptitude), the role of the teacher, and assessment methods. The course will also introduce students to new technological advances in the field of foreign language teaching and course design and material writing.

Skills

- Analyse and synthesise information at an advanced level.
- Analyse the relationship between factors, processes or phenomena in the acquisition of English as a second language, its learning and teaching methods, and its literature, history and culture.
- Apply methodological knowledge of statistical analysis and data generation, treatment and codification of multilingual databases, analysis of literary texts, etc. to research.
- Critically argue, issue judgements and present ideas on the basis of the analysis of information originating from scientific production in these areas.
- Develop autonomous learning skills applicable to the research process.
- Distinguish and contrast between the different methodological and theoretical models applied to the academic study of the acquisition, teaching and use of English as a second language in multilingual and multicultural contexts, literary studies and cultural studies.

- Resolve problems in multicultural academic and/or professional environments associated with the studies of the acquisition, teaching and use of English as a second language in multilingual and multicultural contexts, and the literature and culture of this language.
- Show respect towards the opinions, values, behaviours and/or practices of others.
- Use new technologies for capturing and organising information relevant to lifelong learning and problem-solving in professional activities.
- Use the English language for academic and professional purposes related to research into the acquisition, teaching and use of English as a second language in multilingual and multicultural contexts, literary studies and cultural studies.
- Work effectively in teams in multilingual, multicultural and interdisciplinary professional and/or academic environments.

Learning outcomes

1. Analyse and synthesise information at an advanced level.
2. Analyse the relationship between factors, processes or phenomena in the acquisition of English as a second language, its learning and teaching methods, and its literature, history and culture.
3. Critically apply the different language teaching and learning models to different contexts and realities and incorporate new technologies in teaching methodologies.
4. Critically read academic articles on the acquisition and learning of second languages, their teaching methodologies and new language technologies.
5. Design materials in accordance with the teaching methodologies acquired and apply new technologies to the teaching of languages.
6. Develop autonomous learning skills applicable to the research process.
7. Distinguish the basic concepts of acquisition, learning and teaching of languages as well as their newest technological applications.
8. Evaluate the results of the application of different models for language teaching using questionnaires, interviews and data analyses while applying new technologies.
9. Explain the relationship between the factors of learning, teaching methodology of teaching English as a foreign language and the different methods of evaluation.
10. Identify the different theoretical models of teaching English as a foreign language and its technological applications.
11. Produce critical reviews of academic articles on the teaching and learning of second languages, their teaching methodologies and new language technologies.
12. Show respect towards the opinions, values, behaviours and/or practices of others.
13. Use new technologies for capturing and organising information relevant to lifelong learning and problem-solving in professional activities.
14. Work effectively in teams in multilingual, multicultural and interdisciplinary professional and/or academic environments.
15. Write advanced level academic texts on the learning of English as a foreign language and the different teaching models.

Content

1. Basic and advanced concepts in the acquisition of a second language (SL).
2. Presence-based language teaching methodologies.
3. Forms and resources of computer-assisted language learning (CALL).
4. Learning of vocabulary, grammar and pragmatics with CALL.
5. Teachers' and learners' perceptions of CALL.
6. Gender and CALL.
7. Material design in CALL.

8. Assessment in CALL.

Methodology

- Lectures at the start of every session to introduce the basic concepts.
- Class discussions from the assigned readings.
- Class discussions on practical cases of implementation of the methodologies introduced in class.
- Practical activities on material design.

Activities

Title	Hours	ECTS	Learning outcomes
Type: Supervised
Guided readings	35	1.4	1, 4, 7, 10, 11, 12, 14, 15
Home Assignments	30	1.2	2, 4, 7, 11, 15
Material Creation: blogs, wikis, podcasts, HP,...	35	1.4	4, 7

Evaluation

All students are expected to actively participate in class debates and present the material they have created. They will also be responsible for finding and contributing with interesting activities and secondary material to present in class.

Students will have to create materials using the TIC tools seen in the class and write a short description and justification paper.

At the end of term, students will have to hand in a final assignment on one of the topics covered in the class.

- The level of English will be taken into account in the correction of written work and in the final evaluation.
- VERY IMPORTANT: Total or partial plagiarism of any of the exercises will automatically be considered "fail" (0) for the whole course, not only for the plagiarized item. Plagiarism is copying one or more sentences from unidentified sources, presenting it as original work (THIS INCLUDES COPYING PHRASES OR FRAGMENTS FROM THE INTERNET AND ADDING THEM WITHOUT MODIFICATION TO A TEXT WHICH IS PRESENTED AS ORIGINAL). Plagiarism is a serious offense. Students must learn to respect the intellectual property of others, identifying any source they may use, and take responsibility for the originality and authenticity of the texts they produce.
