Content

Subject Overview

1. The relationship between communication, international cooperation, development and social change. Theories, models and applied strategies.
2. International programmes of international cooperation and aid for development. The UN Agenda 2030 for Sustainable Development Goals (SDG).
3. Knowledge society and media development. Human rights related to information, communication and cyberspace.
4. Media and its discourse on development, cooperation and related issues. Ways to inform from alternative approaches.
5. Communication and journalism professionals as promoters of social change. Design of projects and campaigns.

The order of the topics indicated may vary according to the final planning of the subject. The detailed calendar with the specific contents of each session will be explained on the first day of class (presentation of the subject).

The contents of the subject will be sensitive to the Human Rights-based approach and the gender perspective.

Methodology

The teaching methodology of the subject combines different sessions of oral presentations, theoretical explanations, case studies and debate, as well as participatory seminars/workshops and practical work sessions in a computerised classroom. The fundamental principle is to establish and share a common base of knowledge so that, during the course, students can go deeper into the aspects they prioritise and apply them to the subjects they are most interested in.

The professors will provide in classes, tutorial meetings and/or via Virtual Campus all the information and documentation necessary for the proper follow-up of the subject.

Assessment

The subject adopts a system of continuous assessment, so it is assumed that the attendance of students to all training activities mentioned above is mandatory.

The final grade of the subject will be calculated as a weighted average, based on the following evaluation activities:

- Activity A. Practical exercises: 20% on the final grade;
- Activity B. Individual exams: 30% on the final grade;
- Activity C. Active participation in seminars, workshops and tutorials: 20% on the final grade;
- Activity D. Team course work: 30% on the final grade.

To be able to pass the course, it will be necessary:

a) to have carried out and submitted all the assessment activities. In case of absence due to justified reasons of force majeure, the corresponding proof must be presented to the professors; otherwise, the activities will be recorded as Not Completed.

b) obtain a minimum grade of 5 in each of the activities A, B, C and D.

Reevaluation

The student will have the right to a reevaluation if it has been evaluated of the set of activities, the weight of which is a minimum of 2/3 of the total grade of the subject.

Activities C and D are excluded from the reevaluation process.

Second Enrollment

In the case of a second enrolment, students could do a single synthesis exam about the whole content of the subject. The grading of the subject will correspond to the grade of the synthesis exam/assignment.

Plagiarism

The student who performs any irregularity (copy, plagiarism, identity theft, etc.) that may lead to a significant variation in the grade of an act of evaluation, will be graded with 0 this act of evaluation. In case of more than one irregularity, the final grade of the subject will be 0.
