Objectives and Contextualisation

The subject Italian Art and Literature aims to be, on the one hand, an introduction to the methodology of the study of the interrelationship between arts and literature and, on the other, an analysis of this interrelationship throughout history in four different fields:

- Literature and pictorial art in medieval Italian literary history: Dante, Petrarch and Boccaccio
- Literature and Art in the Italian Renaissance: theatre and perspective
- Italian Photography and Literature: From Realism to Neo-Realism
- Historical novel and genre painting: Caravaggio, Artemisia Gentileschi and Anna Banti

Aims and Objectives

At the end of the course the student must demonstrate

- To have reached the contents expressed in the agenda and identify any of its points in the context that corresponds to it.
- Be able to analyse, process and interpret any type of additional material according to the contents of the agenda and place it in the corresponding frame.
- Demonstrate minimum reading requirements (books and / or specially indicated chapters and / or recommended articles).
- To have reached an integral and global knowledge of the subject by means of the articulation and the existing relation between the different points in which the subject is divided.

Content

This course of "Italian Art and Literature" wants to be a different and joint look directed at some moments of Italian art and literature of great importance both in terms of Italian and international culture. The difficult choice we have made tries to focus attention on some of the most relevant moments, authors and artists. The readings we propose are the following:

Dante, Comedy (Hell; songs 1, 5, 13, and 26; Purgatory: songs X-XII; Paradise: song 1 (dossier))
 Petrarch, Sonnets of the Canzoniere (dossier)
 Boccaccio, Decameron (selection) (dossier)
 Leon Battista Alberti, On Painting (electronic resource)
 19th and 20th century Sicilian writers: Vittorini, Conversazioni in Sicilia
 Futurism: manifestos
 Anna Banti, Artemisia

The course will have two successive blocks. The first block will deal with the subject in Italian literature from Dante to the Renaissance and the second in the period from Realism (19th century) to the middle of the 20th century.

Methodology

The subject of Italian Arts and Literature is theoretical-practical. In general terms, learning activities are organised as follows:

- Directed activities: master class; collective discussion; reading, interpreting and commenting on texts.
- Supervised activities: individual and group exercises, both written and oral; reading, interpreting and commenting on texts.
- Autonomous activities: exercises on the course's Moodle; preparation for the tests; readings, writing, search of documentation...
- Class exchanges (teacher-student, student-student)

Assessment

Assesment is continuous (100%) and based on the following sections:

- Follow-up and participation in class 30%.

- Reviews / Essais on some films / books 40 %

- Synthesis test 30%.

-Students may retake assessment activities they have failed provided that those they have actually performed account for a minimum of 2/3 of the subject's final mark and that they have a weighted average mark of at least 3.5.

-The tasks most directly related to the teaching activity in class are excluded from the re-assesment process.

-It is required to pass each one of the re-assessable activities in order to get the final average degree.

-Re-assesment will consist of a synthesis test on the part in question.

-Italian Erasmus students should consult the Lecturer about their particular evaluation requirements.

- The responsibility for monitoring training and assessment activities lies exclusively with the student.

-Students who engage in misconduct (plagiarism, copying, personation, etc.) in an assessment activity will receive a mark of "0" for the activity in question. In the case of misconduct in more than one assessment activity, the students involved will be given a final mark of "0" for the subject.

-When publishing final marks prior to recording them on students' transcripts, the lecturer will provide written notification of a date and time for reviewing assessment activities.
