This content may be provided (or not) in the order indicated. The content of the different teaching sessions will be before the beginning of the subject, in an Extended Teaching Document, which will be available in the Virtual Campus. All the indicated topics will be discussed in the scheduled sessions and all of them will enter the corresponding evaluations to be done at each moment.

The content of this subject will be sensitive to aspects related to the gender perspective.

Methodology

The basis of the teaching methodology will be to achieve autonomous learning by the students. The academic activity supervised by the teacher, with a constant and active participation of the students, will allow the students to assume the generic and specific competences that will arise in the subject, achieving, in this way, to fulfill the formulated objectives.

The subject is divided into a series of lectures, seminars and / or conferences and / or specific conferences that provide the theoretical and methodological basis and serve as a link and guide to carry out the learning activities (practical classes) and self-learning that are essential in the design of the subject.

Classes of theoretical nature and learning activities will allow the student to assume the purposes of the subject

The practices that are carried out must also have their identification with the theoretical debates that arise in the subject. In this way, there will be a common thread in the whole subject so that students can grow intellectually and in their training.

The use of the Virtual Campus will be key in the subject. Students can have access at all times to all activities that are developed and teaching materials.

The tutorials are considered as a fundamental aspect for the guidance and development of student learning. On the other hand, all communications of the students to the Teaching Staff will be done only and exclusively through the official emails of the teaching staff and the subject (and in no case through the Virtual Campus).

Assessment

The evaluation of the subject will have 4 clearly differentiated parts:

Activity A. Analysis of a campaign (group). It is worth 15% of the final grade

Activity B. Creation of a campaign (group). It is worth 15% of the final grade

Activity C. Content test (individual). It is worth 40% of the final grade

Activity D. Paper - scientific article (individual). It is worth 20% of the final grade

In addition, 10% of the grade will be the participation of students in class.

The specific content of the different activities will be established and published, before the beginning of the subject, in an Extended Teaching Plan, which will be available in the Virtual Campus.

Calendar of evaluable tests:

Session 6: Presentation analysis of a campaign and delivery of the corresponding report.

Session 11: Content test

Session 14: Campaign presentation and delivery of the campaign creation report

Session 18: Delivery of the paper (scientific article)

Note: this calendar will be maintained as long as there are no variations due to a better teaching organization, or changes resulting from alterations in the teaching days that are not attributable to the teaching team of this subject.

When dealing with continuous assessment, attendance in the classroom is required and to pass the subject it is mandatory to perform all the tests set.

Recovery

During the last two weeks of the course there will be a recovery of a maximum of 2 parts of the 4 evaluated (content and paper test), provided that the other two are approved.

Content test recovery:

The student who suspends the theory part, that is to say, the content test, will have the option to take a test of recovery, which will be equally written, with the same format as the previous test, and to celebrate, during the period of activities of recovery, on the date and circumstances that are determined.

The compulsory condition to qualify for this recovery of the theory part is to have submitted to the first written test of evaluation of theoretical knowledge programmed in the subject and have suspended it with a grade equal to or less than 3.5.

Paper recovery:

The student who suspends the paper or scientific article will have the option to submit to a test of recovery, substitution and to celebrate, during the period of recovery activities, on the date and circumstances that are determined.

The compulsory condition to qualify for this recovery of the theory part is to have submitted the paper and have it suspended with a grade equal to or greater than 3.5.

The grade obtained in the recovery -which does not average with the grade obtained in the previous tests will be the final one regarding the evaluation

Review of notes:

The note is made public through the Virtual Campus. From this moment, the students have a week to request, by e-mail, a tutorial with the corresponding teacher (responsible for the evaluation of the concrete test) to analyze and discuss the test score recently evaluated. After one week from the date of publication of a note, no application for a review of the grade will no longer be accepted.
