9. Make a detailed assessment of the capacity for working in homogeneous or interdisciplinary research teams.
10. Personally and critically transfer knowledge acquired in the field of musicology to the pertinent professional and work environments.
11. Solving problems autonomously.
12. Write critical papers on musicology that are planned and organised efficiently.

Content

The course curricula offer an introduction to musical heritage management, with a special focus on musical performance elements within different historical and sociocultural contexts.

Module I:

The sessions in the first module offer a global understanding of musical heritage management and the necessary tool to create management projects.

Module II:

The sessions in this second module offer a transversal view of the essential concepts of music performance theory and performance history and include the analysis of performance elements within different genres, styles and chronologies.

There will be thematic sessions on different topics, including the following:

- Style
- Tradition
- Taste
- Expressivity
- Technique
- Improvisation and Transcription
- The Imaginary Museum of Musical Works
- Recovery

- Authenticity

Methodology

Teacher-led classes that can be complemented with lectures by external experts.

Activities in small groups, teacher-led monitoring sessions and tutoring.

During the academic period of the course, the teacher will require individual tasks related to the content treated to the classes. This work will be done in the classroom or requested as autonomous tasks.

The final task will consist of a management project related to musical performance and heritage that will be supervised by the teachers. After the completion of the project, there will be a written and oral presentation.

During the last weeks of the course there will be a written exam.

Activities

Assessment

There will be continuous assessment of this course.

In the event that tests or exams cannot be taken onsite, they will be adapted to an online format made available through the UAB's virtual tools (original weighting will be maintained). Homework, activities and class participation will be carried out through forums, wikis and/or discussion on Teams, etc. Lecturers will ensure that students are able to access these virtual tools, or will offer them feasible alternatives.

TASKS (40%)

The student will carry individual tasks related to the content treated in the classes. This work will be done in the classroom or requested as autonomous tasks. If a task is not delivered on time, it will be graded as a 0.

A minimum grade of 4 out of 10 is required for this assessment section.

GROUP ASSIGNMENT (25%)

The group assignment will be done both on-site and autonomously and is an obligatory element for this course. There will be both a written and an oral presentation of the group project.

A minimum grade of 3,5 out of 10 is required for this assessment section.

This assignment is not recoverable after the established presentation period, but the teachers will consider the possibility of offering an extension of the dead-line or re-entering the assignment in exceptional cases.

FINAL EXAM (35%)

During the last weeks of the course will be a written exam.

A minimum grade of 4 out of 10 is required. If the grade of the final exam does not allow the student to obtain the average necessary (5 or above) to pass the course, the revaluation exam can be taken in February.

In the event of a student committing any irregularity that may lead to a significant variation in the grade awarded to an assessment activity, the student will be given a zero for this activity, regardless of any disciplinary process that may take place. In the event of several irregularities in assessment activities of the same subject, the student will be given a zero as the final grade for this subject.
