- b) international criminal law (ICC) SPANISH/ENGLISH
- c) International bussines law. SPANISH/ENGLISH

In spite of working a different case, all three groups will use the same methodology. The subject requires "proactivity" from the students, who will work the contents autonomously with the aim to prepare a strategie to defend a written and oral position.

The work to be done for the adequate learning of the contents of the course requires the realization of two types of activities.

1.- Directed activities. Activities to be carried out in the classroom:

Master classes given by the teacher, in which the basic theoretical contents of the three areas of study will be examined.

Once the fundamental contents have been developed, the cases will be presented; a guide will be prepared for their study and roles will be distributed for their written and oral defense.

2.- Autonomous activities

These activities complement the previous ones with the aim that students work individually and in group on the contents of the subject. These activities are of two types:

Group work of three types:

- 1. Information research and analysis of the fundamental topics of the case.
- 2. Information research and analysis of the accusation and defence strategies

Individual work on the topics, readings and preparation of oral presentations
