It particularly aims at training participants to become cultural mediators by encouraging them to take place in cultural activities (reading clubs, cinema forums, artistic exhibitions, theatre plays, concerts, literary routes, etc.). The course also presents strategies to design and disseminate, digitally or in print, the activities carried out in the school libraries or promoted through the community reading plans.

- Develop cooperation strategies for working in teams.
- Develop professional values that include ethical work practices.
- Develop strategies for innovation, creativity and entrepreneurship in the context of school libraries and reading promotion.
- Incorporate ICT for learning, communicating and sharing in education.
- Link up and promote reading and cultural activities, both internal and external, using the appropriate tools.

- Master the use of ICT and apply it to management and promotion processes in a library 2.0. context.

Learning Outcomes

1. Adopt and teach ethical behaviours in accessing cultural products, especially in digital format.
2. Communicate and justify conclusions clearly and unambiguously to both specialist and non-specialist audiences.
3. Develop communication skills involving linguistic, artistic and multi-modal resources.
4. Develop cooperation strategies for working in teams.

6. Implement strategies to promote reading using digital and non-digital tools.
7. Know the potential of ICT and make full use of it in activities.
8. Make innovative and creative proposals to promote the library's cultural activities in the exterior.
9. Recognise the diversity of artistic, cultural and scientific formats and take part in the social activities they generate.
10. Use ICT to promote reading activities.
11. Use ICT to access culture and to link up groups and institutions.

Content

1. Participation in social and cultural activities thanks to the community reading plans or the activities carried out in the school libraries. Literature and music. Literature and cinema. Theatre: texts and representations. Artistic and literary exhibitions. Literature and territory: literary routes. Current news and key past events.
2. Oral narratives and other linguistic, plastic and multimodal communicative resources. Programming activities.
3. Strategies to disseminate reading activities: print and digital instruments. School library blogs.

These contents are treated by taking into account the gender perspective.

Methodology

The course combines theory and practice. Teacher-centred lessons and on-line tutorials will provide the background necessary to engage participants in the following activities:

- Attend and participate actively in cultural events in and outside the classroom.
- Analyse critically one's participation in those cultural events.
- Elaborate and present to the group creative activities and proposals to disseminate cultural activities using ICT tools.

Our teaching approach and assessment procedures may be altered if public health authorities impose new restrictions on public gatherings for COVID-19.

Assessment

Attendance is compulsory. 80% of attendance is required to pass this course.

If the attendance criterion is met, participants should obtain a minimum score in 5 out of 10 in all the assignments to have a mass mark in this course. The final mark is the result of adding the scores obtained in all the assignments. The assessment criteria will be presented together with the guidelines given to elaborate each assignment.

Oral comments in the classroom and written interventions in virtual forums will be carried out during the complete development of the module, and the programming work will be delivered at the end of classes, the following week.

In case of a fail, recovery would take place in June by means of another programming work and a personal interview aimed at evaluating the knowledge and skills acquired.

Our teaching approach and assessment procedures may be altered if public health authorities impose new restrictions on public gatherings for COVID-19.
