9. Use group dynamics and communication techniques for team work and social participation in the promotion of the use of artistic heritage.
10. Work both individually and in interdisciplinary teams.

Content

In this way the main contents refer to:

- Both architecture (urbanplanning) and tourism: The territory, the architectural history and the relationship with tourism, the architectural work as a tourist reference. Constructive materials as an element of tourist attraction. Graphic and industrial design as a potential component of the tourist offer.
- Like art, museums and tourism promotion: The current panorama of museums and their function as more than just cubicles of artistic works. The tourist treatment of museums and artistic heritage.
- As well as the interpretation as a mediator of culture in heritage spaces, whether civil or religious buildings, interpretation centres, museums and/ or foundations, among other spaces: Value for the most noteworthy elements of such spaces, as well as the management and use of group dynamics and communication techniques for the promotion of artistic heritage. Universal accessibility a new concept applicable to all types of audiences
- Not forgetting the projects and artistic manifestations as a component or potential component of the tourist offer: music, theatre and cinema. Music as a component or potential component of the heritage tourist offer. Location and globalization, the musical reality and the existing offer, the recovery of music, the performing arts as axes for new heritage tourism activities. Cinema as a tourist resource, movies and series with more impact, theaters as spaces of heritage tourist activity.
- Being the tourist destinations of art, the works and their artists, the new technological applications related to the heritage and the presence of artists as an added value in heritage tourist destinations.
