Prerequisites

There are no prerequisites to enroll in this course. However, it is recommended students pass "Criminal Law" and "Introduction to Law" with an above average mark.

Objectives and Contextualisation

This course aims to develop students' ability to identify institutional approaches to crime as complex political decisions involving different inputs and interests, which go beyond the effectiveness of crime prevention policies. Moreover, the course intends to encourage critical thought about the principles, the motivations, the aims, the functions and the ideologies in regard to crime policy options. Finally, at the end of the course students should be able to identify the current trends in crime policy, as defined by relevant literature, and to match them with specific political decisions (on issues such as terrorism, gender violence, drugs, immigration, petty property offences and sexual offences).

Competences

- Ability to analyse and summarise.
- Drawing up an academic text.
- Generating innovative and competitive proposals in research and professional activity.
- Reflecting on the foundations of criminology (theoretical, empirical and ethical-political ones) and expressing this in analysis and propositions.
- Students must be capable of autonomously updating their criminological knowledge.
- Students must demonstrate they comprehend the criminological theories.
- Students must demonstrate they know a variety of criminal policies in order to face criminality and its different foundations.
- Verbally transmitting ideas to an audience.
- Working autonomously.

- Working in teams and networking.

Learning Outcomes

1. Ability to analyse and summarise.
2. Applying the variety of criminal policies and their foundations in the criminological field.
3. Drawing up an academic text.
4. Effectively using the theoretical foundations of criminology.
5. Generating innovative and competitive proposals in research and professional activity.
6. Inferring the scientific knowledge of criminology in the applied field.
7. Students must show interest for the scientific updates in the criminological field.
8. Verbally transmitting ideas to an audience.
9. Working autonomously.
10. Working in teams and networking.

Methodology

Introductory session. Part of the first lesson will be devoted to explaining objectives, methodology and evaluation criteria. Attendance to this first session is very important because, besides clarifying the above aspects, students will be shown how to use the online platform which will be used during the course. The workshop will be devoted to the organization of the workgroups.

Lectures. Lectures will present the theoretical aspects of each topic of the course.

Individual work. Students will be expected to study the assigned readings in order to strengthen and deepen their understanding of the readings. In other words, students should not only study the notes they take during lectures but should also broaden their knowledge of each topic of the course by making use of the provided bibliographic material.

Workshops. The workshops will usually be devoted to working in group on case studies, in order to strengthen theoretical knowledge. Some of the workshops will be specifically devoted to work on compulsory readings in a shared and creative way.

Tutorials. Students will be offered personal tutorials, both to clarify some doubts about specific topics of the course and to discuss their on-going evaluation process.

All the activities described above will be complemented with conferences offered by experts who will provide students with practical examples of some of the topics of the course.

Annotation: Within the schedule set by the centre or degree programme, 15 minutes of one class will be reserved for students to evaluate their lecturers and their courses or modules through questionnaires.

Activities

Title	Hours	ECTS	Learning Outcomes
Type: Directed
Lecture Classes	19.5	0.78	2, 6, 7
Workshops	19.5	0.78	2, 6, 7, 1, 8, 10
Type: Autonomous

Assessment

Attendance. Attendance to lectures and workshops is compulsory. Therefore, a student who does not attend at least 80% of the course will not be assessed. Absences will be allowed only in case of medical reasons or outstanding circumstances. An absence note will be required. Any academic reason for absence should be previously authorized by the professor. Attendance will be supervised on lectures and workshops.

Evaluation. Students will be assessed according to the following items:

1) Continuous evaluation

- One exam will check the students' understanding and knowledge of bibliographic and lectures material and will consist in drawing up a paper (30% of the final mark)
- Students will work on a group project concerning a crime policy intervention (30% of the final mark)

2) Final exam

- The final exam will check the students' understanding and knowledge of all course's contents and will consist of a multiple choice exam (40% of the final mark).

Each activity will be graded on a scale from 1 to 10. In order to pass the course, students will need to obtain an average of 5 or above for any of the evaluated activities. Students who do not obtain the minimum mark will be able to resit for that activity during the reassessment period.

Active participation. Students who demonstrate through active participation that they have achieved an above average mastery of the course material and objectives will be rewarded with an increase of the final mark of up to 0.5 extra points.

Punctuality. Classes start on time. Late arrival is not admitted.

Cheating. Cheating at any evaluation activity will imply a fail mark (0) and students will lose the right to a new assessment. Plagiarism will lead to a fail mark (0) and to a warning. In the case of reoccurrence, the student will be given a fail mark (0) and will lose the right to resit.
