Objectives and Contextualisation

The course aims at a full understanding of the most significant aspects of Hispanic Music History, while, at the same time, placing those aspects in the context where they arose and relating them with the rest of Europe. The evolutionary aspects of the musical style that was given in different geographical areas of the Iberian Peninsula will also be considered.

At the end of the course:

- Students will be able to correctly identify the stylistic peculiarities belonging to each period and each specific genre.
- Students will be able to analyze, from scores and auditions, the stylistic traits belonging to a certain time and a certain genre.
- They will have to know the main composers and the most prominent Hispanic musical repertoire.
- Students will be able to contextualize musical works, establishing a link between the forms and stylistic musical features, and social, economic and cultural context in which they occur.
- They will have to be able to handle with critical knowledge and scientific rigor the most important literature and musicological sources of the different studied periods, both to expand knowledge and for research.

Competences

Musicology

- Critically analyse musical works from any of the points of view of the discipline of musicology.
- Developing critical thinking and reasoning and communicating them effectively both in your own and other languages.

- Identify and compare the different channels of reception and consumption of music in society and in culture in each period.
- Know and understand the historical evolution of music, its technical, stylistic, aesthetic and interpretative characteristics from a diachronic perspective.
- Students must be capable of applying their knowledge to their work or vocation in a professional way and they should have building arguments and problem resolution skills within their area of study.
- Students must be capable of communicating information, ideas, problems and solutions to both specialised and non-specialised audiences.
- Students must have and understand knowledge of an area of study built on the basis of general secondary education, and while it relies on some advanced textbooks it also includes some aspects coming from the forefront of its field of study.
