With C2 the student can straightforwardly understand practically everything s/he reads or hears, summarise information from different oral and written sources, reconstruct facts and arguments and present them in a coherent way, express himself/herself naturally and fluently, distinguishing subtle meaning nuances even in the most complex situations.

Knowledge of basic syntactic notions as the ones covered in the second year subject English Syntax (100223).

Objectives and Contextualisation

- To identify the structure of English sentences and the elements these are made of.
- To recognize the operations and processes that underlie characteristic constructions in English such as different types of yes-no and wh-interrogatives, passives, raising, non-finite clauses or those including expletive elements.
- To be able to assess different syntactic analyses for specific constructions.

- Describe synchronously the main grammar units, constructions and phenomena of the English language.
- Develop critical thinking and reasoning and knowing how to communicate effectively both in your mother tongue and in other languages.
- Distinguish and contrast the various theoretical and methodological models applied to the study of the English language, its literature and its culture.
- Generate innovative and competitive proposals in research and professional activities.
- Students must be capable of communicating information, ideas, problems and solutions to both specialised and non-specialised audiences.

- Students must develop the necessary learning skills in order to undertake further training with a high degree of autonomy.
- Working in an autonomous and responsible way in a professional or research environment in English or other languages, in order to accomplish the previously set objectives.

6. Critically assessing the analysis and syntactic, morphological and lexicological elements submitted during the course.
7. Demonstrate a master of the specific methods of individual academic work that prepare the student for a postgraduate specialised education in the same or a different field of study.
8. Effectively communicating and applying the argumentative and textual processes to formal and scientific texts.
9. Identifying and understanding new syntactic elements.
10. Mastering the advanced knowledge and scientific methodologies related to linguistics, literature, history and culture that prepare the student for a postgraduate specialised education in the same or a different field of study.
11. Produce new professional initiatives.
12. Students must be capable of comprehending advanced academic or professional texts in their own language or the another acquired in the degree.
13. Students must be capable of precisely arguing ideas and opinions in their own language or another acquired in the degree.

Assessment

This course is assessed on the basis of four parts: two partial exams (35% and 35%), an assignment (20%) and a series of classroom exercises to encourage class attendance (10%).

On carrying out each evaluation activity, lecturers will inform students (on Moodle) of the procedures to be followed for reviewing all grades awarded, and the date on which such a review will take place.

REASSESSMENT

Students with a final course mark of 3.5/10 who have taken the two mid-terms and submitted the assignment are eligible for reassessment.

The reassessment exam will be a written test, at a time assigned by the Faculty, which will synthesise the contents of the course.

Students will obtain a *No avaluable (Not assessed) course grade if they have completed no more than 35% of the course assessment.

In the event of a student committing any irregularity that may lead to a significant variation in the grade awarded to an assessment activity, the student will be given a zero for this activity, regardless of any disciplinary process that may take place. In the event of several irregularities in assessment activities of the same subject, the student will be given a zero as the final grade for this subject.

VERY IMPORTANT: Plagiarism in any of the exercises will automatically lead to FAILING (0/10) the exercise, which cannot be reassessed. If the student plagiarises a second time, s/he will fail the course. PLAGIARISM means copying a text (and this includes a single sentence) from unidentified sources and pretending it is part of one's own production (THIS INCLUDES COPYING SENTENCES OR FRAGMENTS FROM THE INTERNET, WHICH ARE INCLUDED WITHOUT ANY CHANGES TO THE TEXT THAT IS PRESENTED AS ONE'S OWN) and it is a serious academic offence. Students must learn to respect others' intellectual property and to always identify the sources they use. It is absolutely necessary for students to become entirely responsible for the originality and authenticity of their texts.
