Objectives and Contextualisation

This subject belongs to fourth year curriculum of the Criminology Degree program, in the specialization of sentencing enforcement. It aims to give students an overview of major mental disorders, as well as their relation to the commission of crimes. Additionally, aspects related to the management and protocols of such offenders are considered from the perspective of forensic psychiatry.

At the end of this course students will:

- Know and be able to differentiate the most important psychiatric disorders and their relation to criminal matters
- Demonstrate a basic theoretical basis of forensic psychiatry

- Have the ability to act competently in the field of psychiatry
- Correctly interpret different types of clinical and forensic psychiatric documents

Competences

- Ability to analyse and summarise.
- Drawing up an academic text.
- Properly using the legal, psychological, pedagogical and sociological language.
- Students must demonstrate they know the psychological and sociological concepts and foundations of criminology.
- Using research methods in social sciences in order to diagnose criminality problems.
- Working autonomously.
- Working in teams and networking.

Learning Outcomes

1. Ability to analyse and summarise.
2. Applying the vocabulary of legal psychology.
3. Drawing up an academic text.
4. Laying the foundations for the psychological foundations of criminology.
5. Using research methods in those psychological fields related with criminology.
6. Working autonomously.
7. Working in teams and networking.

Content

Introduction

This course comprises 6 credits of the ECTS model. Each of these credits includes 25 hours of teaching, which makes a total of 150 hours, distributed as follows:

- 12 classroom sessions, 3 hours each: 36 hours (18 theory and 18 seminars)
- Hours of external student work: 109 hours
- Tutorships: 5 hour

In-Class sessions: 12

The sessions will be held during the first quarter of the 2021-22 course (beginning on September 16, 2022 and ending on January 13, 2023). They will be held on Fridays, from 12:00pm to 3:15pm (12.00-15.15) and will include a half hour break. Within the concentration, this class is the first part of theoretical exposition and the second part of the practical seminar.

Methodology

Methodology of the course

Throughout the course the theoretical part will be developed in the first part of each of the classroom classes. These classes are distributed in three modules. The first establishes the theoretical bases on which the subject is based. The bulk of the subject is developed in the second module, which alternates the eminently clinical classes, where the main psychiatric disorders with legal and forensic implications are presented, with those sessions in which the relationship between these disorders and the commission of crimes.

The seminars are reserved to clarify, from a more practical perspective those aspects that allow a better understanding of the subject. In these seminars we will try to illustrate, with practical examples, the theoretical content of the classroom classes. The seminars will be held in the second part of the classroom classes. In addition, in these teaching spaces, students should make presentations with a practical focus on the topics that have been developed in the theoretical part and that should have expanded with work outside the classroom.

External activities of the student

To reach the competences of the subject, students must complete 106 hours of external work:

- Preparation of the classroom classes (6 hours of study for each of the 13 classroom classes): 78 hours.
- Elaboration of a writing work based on any of the topics of the subject and its oral presentation in the seminars: 18 hours.

Annotation: Within the schedule set by the centre or degree programme, 15 minutes of one class will be reserved for students to evaluate their lecturers and their courses or modules through questionnaires.

Assessment

System of evaluation

A system of continuous evaluation is established in which the following aspects will be evaluated:

Requirements for evaluation

- Attendance is mandatory for the classroom sessions. To pass the subject it is absolutely necessary attend a minimum of 80% of the classroom sessions. Attitude and class participation will be included in the attendance grade. Classes start on time and entry is not allowed once they have started
- Presentation of works, or practical cases, in the different seminars. The content of these papers will be on some of the topics covered throughout the course and will be supervised by the responsible teacher.
- Exam

Items of evaluation

- Classroom attendance (25% of the total grade)
- Execution of works (25% of the total of the qualification)
- Examination (50% of the total of the qualification)

Resit

Students will have the opportunity to repeat exercises or exams in case of a fail mark.

Fraudulent conduct

Cheating in the exam will conduct to a fail mark (0), losing the right of reassessment. Plagiarism in essays will conduct to a fail mark (0). Most serious cases will conduct to a fail mark (0), losing the right of reassessment.

Grade dissertation

Professors of the subject will offer the possibility of performing two dissertations. One of them will be a research project and the other a work of practical intervention.
