4. Choosing the appropriate methodology according to the drafted research objectives.
5. Doing research through qualitative or quantitative models in the criminological field.
6. Drawing up an academic text.
7. Effectively determining the obtained results in a program of criminological intervention.
8. Efficiently designing a research with hypothesis.
9. Locating and interpreting scientific information about criminological content.
10. Using a vocabulary free of discriminatory connotations and lack of respect when explaining professional arguments in front of the parties involved in a criminal act.
11. Verbally transmitting ideas to an audience.
12. Working autonomously.

Content

FYD TYPES

There are three possible types of FYD

- 1) Research project: Consists on designing and doing a research project based on a criminological topic. It needs to include a literature review; the hypothesis and a specific methodology in order to accomplish with the aims of the research. Finally students may need to present and discuss the results, as well as to conclude with some final conclusions linked to the literature and future research lines.
- 2) Systematic Review: Consists on a literature review on a specific criminological topic. The aim of the review is to be relevant for future research or criminological intervention on a specific topic. It needs to include national and international literature. The method used needs to follow the standards of a systematic review -criteria, relevance, topic-. Conclusions need to be arised and comented.
- 3) Prevention-intervention programme: Consists on a design of a programme and its evalutation based on a chosen topic. Students have to look for literature and current programs that are being aplyed to identify the specific needs for the chosen topic in order to design a prevention program (primary, secondary or terciary). Finally, students must include an evalution plan.

FORMAL REQUIREMENTS

Regardless of the chosen modality, all FYD must respect the following formal requirements:

- Extension. Maximum 8500 words (including figures and quotations). The title page, acknowledgments, abstract, table of contents, bibliography and annexes are not included in this maximum. The number of words must be indicated on the cover page. The student who extends the number of words will be penalized. It is possible to use annexes, however the comitee do not have to read them in order to evaluate the project
- Style. The text must be writtenin Times New Roman or similar, size 12. Footnotes, out-of-text citations, and examples must follow the same style but size 10. The text must be justified and the line spacing must be 1.5 points. The margins must be: upper and lower 3 cm; insideand outside: 3.5 cm.
- Languages. The work may be written in Catalan, Spanish, or English. The writing in English will be especially valued.

Methodology

FINAL YEAR DISSERTATION ASSIGNMENT SYSTEM

A list of general topics and lecturers will be provided to the students at the beginning of the first semester. Students will be able to choose among the topics and lecturers available, according to their academic records. Once students have a lecturer and a general topic assigned, during the first tutorial students and lecturers may discuss about the specific topic of the dissertation.

1. List of FYD supervisors available on Moodle and informative session: September
2. FYD Supervisor choice: October (using an specific app managed by the Law Faculty staff)
<http://www.uab.cat/web/estudiar/graus/graus/treball-de-fi-de-grau/-/master-1345716724164.html>
3. Assignment: October (will be published on Moodle)

Once the final assignment has been completed, the students be able to write to the assigned supervisor to carry out the first tutorial. Students will have the responsibility to contact the supervisor.

FYD FOLLOW-UP

The Final Year Dissertation needs to be supervised by a pre-assigned lecturer, the supervisor. The Supervisor needs to do a follow-up consisting on 4 tutorials. Students will have the responsibility to contact the supervisor to realize the follow-up tutorials.

- The first-contact tutorial
- Two follow-up sessions
- One final- feedback based tutorial

Following-up registration form

Supervisor and student must use a following-up registration form in order to plan and organise chronologically the project development. The follow-up document will be available on campus and students may need to update it after every tutorial session. It has to be delivered at the same time the FYD will be in a different file.

Supervisor could suggest Students -directly or through the FYD coordinator- to ask for extra advice to solve legal, methodological or theoretical aspects of their FYD.

Submissions

To be evaluated, students have to submit 5 documents, showing the evolution of the project. Supervisors need to give some feedback in order to let the students improve their work.

- Initial submission: (only via moodle) title, topic and first structure draft
- First submission: (to the supervisor and via Moodle). Topic concretion, dissertation structure and literature review completed. Methodology draft
- Following-up submission: (to the supervisor and via Moodle). Literature review and theoretical framework adopted. Methodology and design/program completed.
- Final version-Draft: (to the supervisor and via Moodle). Dissertation completed including annexes.
- Final submission; (to the supervisor, via Moodle and one printed version delivered in the SLIPI of the Faculty of Law). Printed version must be double-sided.

Supervisors must give feedback to the students after each submission so they can improve their work.

STRUCTURE

Structure for research project and systematic review:

Cover. Student name, title, subtitle, subject information (name, degree, course), supervisor name, number of words used, submission date

Abstract and key words. Abstract between 150 and 250 words and max. 5 key words.

Table of contents (with pages)

1. Introduction: topic presentation and general objectives, dissertation structure presentation
2. Literature review/ theoretical framework: Theoretical framework adopted, legal references
3. Objectives. Research question/s. General and specific aims. If necessary (quantitative research), hypothesis.
4. Methodology. Method and design
5. Results
6. Discussion and conclusions. Results discussion and theoretical and practical implications. Limitations of the research. Future research suggestions. Synthesis of the results linked to the theoretical framework adopted and the method used.
7. References. APA 2020 is the reference style used for this purpose. All the references must be in APA style. (<https://apastyle.apa.org/>)

Annexes

Structure for intervention program:

Cover. Student name, title, subtitle, subject information (name, degree, course), supervisor name, number of words used, submission date

Abstract and key words. Abstract between 150 and 250 words and max. 5 key words.

Table of contents (with pages)

1. Introduction: topic presentation and general objectives, dissertation structure presentation.
2. State of art: Contextualization and theoretical framework adopted, legal references. Current programs.
3. Program. Justification. Aims. Activities. Resources. Evaluation.
4. Results
5. Discussion and conclusions. Theoretical and practical implications. Limitations of the research. Future research suggestions. Synthesis of the results linked to the theoretical framework adopted and the method used.
6. References. APA 2020 is the reference style used for this purpose. All the references must be in APA style. (<https://apastyle.apa.org/>)

PLAGIARISM

According to the UAB and the School of Law rules plagiarism is forbidden and punished. The detection of a plagiarism in a FYD may imply a Failed (0) and the possibility to take disciplinary actions. There is no resit available in this case and the faculty and/ or the university may decide whether the student can register the subject again.

RESIT

In case of obtaining a grade between 4 and 5 the commission may offer the possibility to modify some aspects of the dissertation in order to let the student pass the subject. The student may have time to introduce the changes and submit again the FYD the present academic year. The maximum mark students can get on the resit is a 5. It is possible to fail the resit. In that case, student may need to register again de FYD the following academic year. However, in case of obtaining less than a 4 students will not be able to resit and may need to register and do again the FYD the following academic year.

TIMELINE

Timeline is susceptible to be changed. The dates will be published on Moodle at the beginning of the course.

September	Publication of the topic and supervisor's list at moodle and first meeting
October	Topic and Supervisor's election
October	First meeting with the supervisor
October	Initial submission
January	First submission
March	Following-up submission
May	Final version- Draft
May	Final submission
May	Supervisors evaluation form
June	Commission evaluation form
June	Oral presentation preparation session
June	Oral presentation. 15 minutes with multimedia support material
June	Final marks
June	Resit

Annotation: Within the schedule set by the centre or degree programme, 15 minutes of one class will be reserved for students to evaluate their lecturers and their courses or modules through questionnaires.

Assessment

EVALUATION SYSTEM

The FYD has four written submissions (initial, follow-up and final) and an oral presentation. Supervisors may need to fill an evaluation form, containing a qualitative and quantitative evaluation of the FYD. All the submissions are compulsory. In case students do not accomplish with them, supervisor may be able to evaluate them negatively, with the possibility of marking them with a failure.

The committee may count with three members -lecturers or professors- designated by the dean of the Faculty of Law in charge of evaluating the oral presentation. Students may have 15 minutes to present their FYD and afterwards may need to answer to the questions and comments raised by the committee. The committee will freely decide the final mark taking into account all the reports: the supervisor evaluation form, the member of the committee evaluation form and the oral presentation.
