Methodology

a) Theoretical approach

The professor will provide theoretical explanations in a master class format to introduce and engage students in the topics illustrated through the contents of the subject, emphasizing the use of case studies. Visual, textual, and moving image references will be provided as well throughout these lectures.

b) Practical approach

The theoretical lectures will be followed and interspersed with debates and dialogues among students and with the professor. Short exercises and problem-based activities will also be devised so that students apply the knowledge acquired in each block. Subsequently, each learning block will be evaluated in either group or individual activities. Cooperative learning will be particularly encouraged for this approach.

Annotation: Within the schedule set by the centre or degree programme, 15 minutes of one class will be reserved for students to evaluate their lecturers and their courses or modules through questionnaires.

Assessment

- In order to pass this subject, and due to its practical nature which involves exercising verbal and non-verbal skills, students must both submit the activities (and present them orally when indicated) and take the final test. Should any student not be able to attend any of the presentations or follow some other ongoing activities, a meeting with the professor will be arranged in order to decide on extra activites to compensate for that. This evaluation system involves that Management and Communication Skills does not provide the option of taking only a final exam as a means to evaluate all the knowledge acquired throughout the subject.
- Students should have at least 5 points in the final test to pass this subject. If a student has more than 3.5 points in the final test, or less than 5, they should take the reevaluation exam. Please be reminded that the grade of the reevaluation exam amounts to 5 points. However, this grade will then be combined with that of the previous activites delivered to have the final and definitive grade of the subject.
