Assessment

Scheduled evaluation process and activities

The fundamental axis of the evaluation of this subject is the work of the student inside and out of the classroom with the realization of the work of course and of the continuous evaluation activities, the participation in debates, the common discussion of texts, oral defense of work, etc. The characteristics of the subject make the class a place open to analysis and debate, in which through the reading of texts the basic concepts of the different legal systems can be assimilated. To evaluate this objective, the evaluation activities are divided into three types:

a) Debates in the classroom (20% of the evaluation)

The subject has a methodological orientation in the seminar, therefore, discussion and participation in the classroom is essential. In this sense, debates, readings, viewing of documentaries related to the syllabus of the subject will be organized, which will have to be worked and discussed in class, either individually or in groups. For this reason, maximum attendance is recommended, as otherwise the pedagogical objectives of the subject are lost.

b) Continuous evaluation activities (30% of the evaluation)

In order to develop in a practical way some subjects of the syllabus, three practices of continuous evaluation will be carried out with a value of 30% on the final qualification. Each practice will therefore have a value of 10%. In carrying out these activities it is important to do research, delve into the subjects, look for quality information.

c) Course work (50% of the evaluation)

The main objective of the elaboration of the course work is to deepen in concrete legal system or to compare law and institutions, and to acquire a wider knowledge. This work aims to be a rigorous research on the subject of study, therefore it will have to be planned from the beginning of the course, and will involve a follow-up by the teacher of its development, and of the phases. For this reason, it is mandatory to set with the teacher in the first two weeks of the course the topic to be developed. The following deliveries are set out below

i) The first deadline consist of realizing and presenting the following tasks.

- Approach to the problem under study.
- Set work goals.
- Temporary work planning.

ii) The second deadline consists of selecting the information and managing the bibliography.

- Information search
- Elaboration of records of the bibliography with synthesis of the content.
- The student will have to present a document indicating the sources of information consulted and will elaborate a minimum of 10 records of the bibliography consulted in accordance with the rule on how to cite the sources of information. In addition, the student must submit a summary of the contents of each of the records.

iii) The third deadline consists of presenting a document:

- Complete memory index.
- Draft of the work.

iv) The fourth deadline consists of presenting the work completely completed.

Partial submissions are essential for the development of the work, the teacher will rely on them to make comments and assess whether progress is being made properly. Failure to present the partial assignments is a serious alteration of the objectives of the course work, which are progressive and cumulative, and prevents the teacher from supervising the activity. Consequently, it will lead to the impossibility of continuing with the course work.

In order to elaborate the Course Work, the guidelines and criteria of the Final Degree Project of Law must be followed, with the exception of the extension.

RE-EVALUATION

The re-evaluation of the subject will be done by offering students the opportunity to re-evaluate the course practices not passed, or improve the course work that all students must do. Only those students who have taken the ordinary assessment will be able to access the re-evaluation. To access the re-evaluation, at least the coursework and the continuous evaluation activities must have been done. The minimum grade to access is 4 points in the continuous assessment.

Fraudulent conduct

A student who copies or attempts to copy an exam will have a 0 on the exam. A student who submits a practice in which there is plagiarism will get a 0 and receive a warning. In case of repetition of the behavior, the student will suspend the subject.
