Methodology

Methodology

The student's dedication to this subject is divided into different types of activities, each of them has a specific weight of work hours. This variety of work forms materializes in differentiated methodologies.

The subject is 6 ECTS credits.

The activities are distributed in:

- Directed activities, which are activities in the classroom with the presence of the professor and may consist of lectures (with the use of ICT and with the possibility of group discussions); in seminars to discuss compulsory readings in smaller groups and sessions more oriented to practical issues in which cases, problems and examples related to the course syllabus will be analyzed. For these sessions there will be mandatory pre-readings announced by the teacher in advance. These activities represent approximately one third of the total work required.

- Supervised activities are those carried out by the student outside the classroom and in accordance with a plan designed and subsequently supervised and evaluated by the professor. The student must read and prepare texts that will be subject to control and evaluation in sessions of seminars and practices; writing of a group work that will be subject to control and evaluation through written and oral presentation in seminar mode; look for documentation on a certain topic related to the international organization (with a guide prepared by the teacher), write a brief report and make a presentation in the classroom. Also, during the course, the student should read short articles and make a comment on the text read, in addition to actively participate in the discussions on the articles. Tutoring and other similar course follow-up activities are also included. These activities represent approximately ten percent of the work required.

- Autonomous activities are those carried out by the student on their own and in accordance with the requirements of the subject to overcome it successfully. They can be basic and complementary readings, study of class notes and / or all activities that complement the training required by the course. These activities represent approximately half of the student's work.

The teaching methodology is adapted to the distribution of work and activities.

Annotation: Within the schedule set by the centre or degree programme, 15 minutes of one class will be reserved for students to evaluate their lecturers and their courses or modules through questionnaires.

Assessment

Evaluation

The course will be evaluated by:

1. The realization of a written exam relative to the theoretical and practical contents (60%)
2. The elaboration of a written group work and defended orally (20% of the final grade)
3. The readings and comments of a series of texts (the guidelines and critical reading of the texts) (20% of the final grade)

Students who do not pass the written exam will have the opportunity to take a partial written exam.

Important: Students who do not obtain the minimum grade, five points out of ten, will not be able to take the partial written exam.

The fact of submitting to the partial written exam exempts the student from the final written exam.

Important

- In accordance with article 117.2 of the UAB Academic Regulations, the evaluation of those students who have been enroled before may consist of a single synthesis examination. The students who wish to be evaluated this way should contact the professor at the beginning of the semester.

- Plagiarism is a very serious offense. This will be a grade of 0 (zero) for the assigned task/exam/exercise

Comprehensive evaluation.

Students who request it in due time and form, may take advantage of a "Single Assessment" (Comprehensive evaluation).

The procedure and notification period to request the single assessment will be announced at the beginning of the course.

This single evaluation will be carried out at the end of the semester, on the day set by the Faculty for the ordinary

In case of not passing this test with a score of 5 points out of 10, the students will be able to recover the exam an
