Objectives and Contextualisation

The subject is aimed to give to future graduates in Journalism a basic university-level training on the fundamentals and evolution of 20th century Catalonia within the Spanish framework (especially, since the proclamation of the Spanish Republic in 1931). The students will learn about the political, social, economic and cultural dynamics that, beginning in the early 20th century, reach the 21st, and without which they could hardly interpret or explain the reality of current affairs.

- Demonstrate a critical and self-critical capacity.
- Demonstrate adequate knowledge of Catalonia's socio-communicative reality in the Spanish, European and global context.

- Demonstrate adequate knowledge of the modern world and its recent historic development in terms of social, economic, political and cultural aspects.
- Students can apply the knowledge to their own work or vocation in a professional manner and have the powers generally demonstrated by preparing and defending arguments and solving problems within their area of study.
- Students must be capable of collecting and interpreting relevant data (usually within their area of study) in order to make statements that reflect social, scientific or ethical relevant issues.
- Students must be capable of communicating information, ideas, problems and solutions to both specialised and non-specialised audiences.
- Students must develop the necessary learning skills in order to undertake further training with a high degree of autonomy.
- Students must have and understand knowledge of an area of study built on the basis of general secondary education, and while it relies on some advanced textbooks it also includes some aspects coming from the forefront of its field of study.
- Take account of social, economic and environmental impacts when operating within one's own area of knowledge.
- Take sex- or gender-based inequalities into consideration when operating within one's own area of knowledge.
- Value diversity and multiculturalism as a foundation for teamwork.

8. Read, analyse, interpret and discuss texts featuring historic content and present the summary of the analysis in writing and in public.
9. Students can apply the knowledge to their own work or vocation in a professional manner and have the powers generally demonstrated by preparing and defending arguments and solving problems within their area of study.
10. Students must be capable of collecting and interpreting relevant data (usually within their area of study) in order to make statements that reflect social, scientific or ethical relevant issues.

Assessment

The calendar will be available on the first day of class. Students will find all information on the Virtual Campus: the description of the activities, teaching materials, and any necessary information for the proper follow-up of the subject. In case of a change of teaching modality for health reasons, teachers will make readjustments in the schedule and methodologies.

Grading will be based on three items. Two of them will be written exercises and will be assigned throughout the semester. The second written exercise will be a final exam (50% of the final assessment).

In order to pass, the student must get at least a final mark of 5, resulting from the weighted sum of the marks of the three evaluating items, according to their percentage. Should the final mark be between 3.5 and 4.9, the student will be able to resit the final exam to pass the subject.

Resit

Students will be entitled to the revaluation of the subject. They should present a minimum of activities that equals two-thirds of the total grading. The resit exam is not aimed at improving the final mark. It only allows the student to pass the subject with a final mark of 5.

Single evaluation

Students who so express it may take a single evaluation. This will consist of three evaluation activities that will represent, respectively, 25%, 25% and 50% of the final grade. The first two will be analyzes of historical materials and must be delivered on the day of the synthesis exam/assignment, which will consist of a final exam on the day set in the calendar. The course grade will correspond to the sum of the three activities. Should the final mark be between 3.5 and 4.9, the student will be able to resit the final exam to pass the subject.

Second enrolment

In the case of a second enrolment, students can do a single synthesis exam/assignment that will consist of final exam. The grading of the subject will correspond to the grade of the synthesis exam/assignment

Final mark

It will result from the weighted sum of the marks of the different evaluation items, according to their percentage. The resit exam will include contents of all the topics taught during the semester.

Plagiarism

The student who performs any irregularity (copy, plagiarism, identity theft...) will be qualified with 0 in this assignment or exam. In case there are several irregularities, the final grade of the subject will be 0.

Evaluation surveys

During one of the classes, the teacher will provide students with 15 minutes to answer the surveys on the teaching performance and the subject or module
