Prerequisites

This subject assumes the contents of the subjects dedicated to the study of the Latin language and Latin literature from the previous first and second courses of the Ancient Sciences degree.

Objectives and Contextualisation

The objective of this subject is to delve into some aspects of Latin literature, specifically in the genres of elegiac and didactic poetry, on the one hand, and in dramatic literature, on the other. To achieve this purpose, the historical and sociocultural circumstances in which the texts to be studied are produced will be taken into account, as well as the evolution of the mentioned literary genres. The central authors for their study will be Ovid for the elegiac and didactic genre, and Plautus, Terence and Seneca for the dramatic.

We will also work on and evaluate the own translation of the selected texts.

In order to broaden the focus and offer a more global perspective of each genre, the mentioned authors will necessarily be placed in relation to other authors of classical literature and with whom they have a gender affinity. The work of reading and interpreting the texts will lead to the consolidation and expansion of knowledge of the Latin language.

Competences

Ancient Studies

- Be able to express oneself orally and in writing in the specific language of history, archaeology and philology, both in one's own languages and a third language.
- Interpret texts written in Latin and Greek to understand the history and Classical civilisations.
- Interrelate linguistic, historical and archaeological knowledge of the ancient world with knowledge of other areas of the humanities, mainly ancient literature, philosophy and art.

English and Classics Studies

- Theoretical framework on the elegiac epistle: Ovid (Tristia, Heroides)
- Theoretical framework on Latin didactic poetry: Ovid (Metamorphosis, Ars amandi, Fasti)
- Translation and commentary on an selection of Ovid's texts (various literary genres)

Methodology

The classes

The classes are face-to-face and compulsory. The professor will accompany, with theoretical explanations, the presentation of both the literary genres and the authors and the written works.

He will work on a selection of texts, on which he will base the reading of the essential authors and the study of the literary genres.

One part of the methodology will consist of the translation of some of the Latin texts studied, in order to know the most significant three of the style of their authors and of the literary genre to which they pertain.

More than a year ago, the study had to arrive in translation at Plautus's Amphitruo and Ovid's Heroida 12 (Medea).

Gender Perspective

it will be taken into account both in the use of inclusive language and in the selection and treatment of some of the texts, as well as its tradition will be highlighted.

Annotation: Within the schedule set by the centre or degree programme, 15 minutes of one class will be reserved for students to evaluate their lecturers and their courses or modules through questionnaires.

Assessment

CONTINUOUS ASSESSMENT

All the tests and exercises that are indicated below are scored and valid for the follow-up of the student body and the calculation of the final grade. All activities are mandatory.

Control of readings

Amphitruo of Plautus: 15% Week 8

Ovid's Heroida 12 (Medea): 15% Week 8

Practices

1 Translation practice and commentary on plays 15% Week 10

1 Translation practice and commentary on Ovid's works 15% Week 10

exams

1 Translation test with a dictionary and commentary on a passage from a Latin drama (20%) Week 16

1 Translation test with a dictionary and commentary on a passage from a work by Ovid (20%) Week 16

SINGLE ASSESSMENT

Students who take the single assessment must:

1. HAND IN: a comment on the relevance of the gender perspective from the reading of Ovid's Heroides. (20%) Week 16

2. DO: 1 translation and commentary exercise on a text by Ovid (40%) Week 16 and 1 translation and commentary exercise on a Latin dramatic work (40%) Week 16

FOR THE TWO MODALITIES

In the event that the student performs any irregularity that may lead to a significant variation in the grade of an evaluation act, this evaluation act will be graded with 0, regardless of the disciplinary process that may be instituted. In the event that various irregularities occur in the evaluation acts of the same subject, the final grade for this subject will be 0.

At the time of carrying out each evaluation activity, the teacher will inform the students (Moodle) of the procedure and the date of revision of the qualifications.

The student will receive the qualification of "Not evaluable" as long as she has not delivered more than 1/3 of the evaluation activities.

Recovery

All students (continuous or single assessment) are entitled to a recovery test if the sum of all assessment items reaches 3.5.

The recovery test will be indicated at the end of the course sufficiently in advance and gives the option of a maximum grade of 5 points.

In the event that the student body performs any irregularity that may lead to a significant variation in the grade of an evaluation act, this evaluation act will be graded with 0, regardless of the disciplinary process that may be instituted. In the event that various irregularities occur in the evaluation acts of the same subject, the final grade for this subject will be 0.
