Prerequisites

It is recommended to have studied any module with contents in legal issues

Objectives and Contextualisation

a) General learning objectives:

The objective of this module is to analyse the processes through which gender relationships are constructed within the scope of the criminal justice system. The objectives are manifold: firstly, to point out how criminology knowledge reproduces and generates structures of subordination towards women, through the study of traditional criminology schools of thought and of the most recent criminology and gender theories; secondly, to understand the gender exclusion mechanisms used by the criminal system, that increase their own particular selectivity and generate new exclusion (for instance, in the case of women's prisons); thirdly, gender perspective addresses how the solution of some social problems affecting predominantly women are tackled.

b) Objectives concerning the development of skills:

With this module, we aim to provide students with a new critical perspective (i.e. gender perspective), to study the criminal system and its application.

c) Objectives centred on the learning of values:

This module will contribute to the learning of non-sexist values and respect towards gender diversity. All these will be use to delve into the development of the human rights culture.

Competences

- Express correctly and in a non-sexist or homophobic manner both orally and in writing.
- Identify the basic legal concepts, legislation and jurisprudence related to the rights of the collectives affected by gender inequalities.
- Propose and analyze the results of gender policies and plans of equality and equity in institutions, companies, public, private and non-governmental organizations.
- Proposing corrective actions of the violences that trigger the types and degrees of discrimination on the basis of sex, gender and sexual orientation.
- Students can apply the knowledge to their own work or vocation in a professional manner and have the powers generally demonstrated by preparing and defending arguments and solving problems within their area of study.
- Students must be capable of communicating information, ideas, problems and solutions to both specialised and non-specialised audiences.
- Work cooperatively and energize multidisciplinary and diverse teams, assuming and respecting the role and diversity of those who make them up.

Learning Outcomes

1. Apply the basic legal concepts to the prevention of crimes of sexist violence.
2. Apply to the legal practice specific debates on gender and law, bioethics, law and technology, and sociology of law.
3. Describe criminological interventions focused on the criteria of gender, peace, integration and social prevention.
4. Make an inclusive use of language.
5. Propose criminological interventions based on the analysis and study of inequality.
6. Put into practice skills to work in a team: commitment to the team, habit of collaboration, ability to promote problem solving.
7. Students can apply the knowledge to their own work or vocation in a professional manner and have the powers generally demonstrated by preparing and defending arguments and solving problems within their area of study.
8. Students must be capable of communicating information, ideas, problems and solutions to both specialised and non-specialised audiences.

Methodology

Each week a mandatory reading will be discussed and there will be a group presentation on a theme of the program.

During the course the individual work of the student will be developed, divided into a research work and a commentary about compulsory readings

The methodology will use seminar discussions, individual and group presentations

Annotation: Within the schedule set by the centre or degree programme, 15 minutes of one class will be reserved for students to evaluate their lecturers and their courses or modules through questionnaires.

Activities

Assessment

Requirements to pass the course

1. Conditions for assessment: 80% attendance in classes and active participation in class. Submission of individual and group work.
2. Requirements to pass the module: a minimum grade of 5 is required for each type of assessment activity to obtain a pass.

Resits

If a student does not pass any of the assessment activities, a resit will be granted. The resit for group work and participation will take place during the teaching term. Individual work and the final test will take place during the resit weeks.

Fraudulent conduct

Plagiarism in the submitted work and copying during the test will entail a grade of 0 in the module and a resit will not be allowed.

In the event of a student committing any irregularity that may lead to a significant variation in the grade awarded to an assessment activity, the student will be given a zero for this activity, regardless of any disciplinary process that may take place. In the event of several irregularities in assessment activities, the student will receive a zero as the final grade for the class.

In the event that tests or exams cannot be taken onsite, they will be adapted to an online format made available through the UAB's virtual tools (the original weighing will be maintained). Homework, activities and class participation will be carried out through forums, wikis and/or discussion on Teams, etc.

Single evaluation:

The single evaluation will consist of an exam of 5 compulsory readings of the subject (50%), which will be determined by the teacher, and the development of two individual assignments (25%+25%) that will be done on the same date as the exam.

It is necessary to pass the exam to add the note of the individual works.

If one / a student / does not pass any of the activities will have a chance to recover.
