Prerequisites

The subject requires a general knowledge in economics and organizational behavior.

Objectives and Contextualisation

Human resources are a fundamental element of organizations. This is even more important for the economies of our closest environment, increasingly oriented to services. On the other hand, many organizations present in our environment are or have international relations, which implies the need to study the management of people in a much more complex economic and cultural situation than could be found a few years ago.

The subject aims to provide a vision of human resources in which the main strategic aspects are considered to allow an understanding of the processes that are carried out in this area of the companies.

The objectives of the subject are, therefore:

Understanding the concept of strategic management of human resources; understand the mechanisms of information and communication in the company; Analyze and assimilate issues to be taken into account when defining the provision of human resources. Define the training and development policy; understand the objectives and the instruments to evaluate the performance and the compensation; combine all the previous elements in order to design professional careers and the possible redimension processes of the organization. Finally, the student must be able to make a definition of the human resources strategy and application of policies for different types of organizations, in different circumstances, in order to increase the generation of value.

Team course final assessment: 30%

"Aquesta assignatura preveu el sistema d'avaluació única"

60% --- Long questions

40% --- Short questions

"Students will be assessable as long as they have completed a set of activities whose weight is equivalent to a minimum of 2/3 of the subject's total grade. If the value of the activities carried out does not reach this threshold, the teacher of the subject may consider the student as non-evaluable".

If the student's course grade is 5 or higher, he/she is considered to have passed the subject and this cannot be the subject of a new assessment. To access the re-evaluation, students must obtain a minimum average grade of all evaluation activities equal to or greater than 3.5 out of 10 and less than 5. To participate in the re-evaluation, students must have been evaluated in a set of activities whose weight is equivalent to a minimum of two-thirds of the subject's total grade. When the mark of the recovery test is equal to or higher than 5, the final grade of the subject will be PASS, the maximum numerical grade being 5. When the mark of the recovery test is lower than 5, the final grade of the subject will be SUSPENDED, the numerical grade being the grade of the course (and not the grade of the recovery test). In the case of a grade lower than 3.5, the student will have to repeat the subject in the following course.

"The re-evaluation of the single evaluation system, the same recovery system will be applied as for the continuous evaluation"
