Students' learning process in this course is organised around three types of activities:

1.DIRECTED ACTIVITIES

Directed activities are performed in classroom during class-hours under the direction of the lecturer. Directed activities are theoretical and practical activities.

In these sessions, in their theoretical side, the lecturer, based on the applicable Law, explains different contents of the course, and the concepts are developed through questioning students. It is necessary that all students have an updated compilation of procedural normative.

Students, alone or in little groups, shall carry out directed activities in classroom as practical activities.

Basically these practical sessions consist of case-resolutions and students' oral presentations.

2.AUTONOMOUS ACTIVITIES

In these activities students, alone or in group, organise their time and effort autonomously.

Autonomous activities include, among others, search and study of bibliography, elaboration of drafts or summaries, search of case-law and preparation of scored activities afterwards in classroom corrected.

In this course most of the autonomous activities are connected to the following-up of theoretical classes, elaboration of practical activities and preparation for the exam.

3. CRONOGRAM

At the beginning of the course the cronogram shall be posted in the Virtual Campus.

Annotation: Within the schedule set by the centre or degree programme, 15 minutes of one class will be reserved for students to evaluate their lecturers and their courses or modules through questionnaires.
