Teaching groups languages

You can view this information at the end of this document.

Prerequisites

A B2 level of English of the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages is required, although no specific test of English proficiency level is held to access the degree.

Students have to demonstrate the necessary language skills to engage with texts, present them in open sessions and to critically discuss their contents.

Objectives and Contextualisation

The course has three main objectives:

- That students know the basic elements that define democratic systems
- That students know the different theories of democracy and understand their differences
- That students use the different theories to critically analyze the different challenges to the democratic system

Competences

- Act with ethical responsibility and respect for fundamental rights and duties, diversity and democratic values.
- Contrast the main contemporary political theories.
- Explain and summarise knowledge acquired in English language at an advanced level.
- Students must be capable of communicating information, ideas, problems and solutions to both specialised and non-specialised audiences.
- Students must develop the necessary learning skills to undertake further training with a high degree of autonomy.

Learning Outcomes

1. Assessing the contribution of movements like feminism, environmentalism or various identity movements.
2. Define the concepts of democracy and dictatorship, describe the different models and critically evaluate their functioning.
3. Demonstrating good writing skills in different contexts.
4. Interpret the pre-existing political and social frameworks as explanatory background to the current ones.
5. Propose projects and actions in accordance with the principles of ethical responsibility and respect for fundamental rights, diversity and democratic values.
6. Students must be capable of communicating information, ideas, problems and solutions to both specialised and non-specialised audiences.
7. Students must develop the necessary learning skills to undertake further training with a high degree of autonomy.
8. Use contemporary political theories and understand from them their analytical value for home-based and international case studies.
9. Write a review of a publication, documentary video or event (conference or seminar) in English adapted to the content of one or more subjects on this course.

Content

1. Introduction: democracy as a concept
2. A history of democracy, democratization and democratic political systems
3. Liberal Democracy: basic characteristics
4. The Theoretical Origins of Liberal Democracy (Liberalism, Popular Sovereignty)
5. Interpretations of Liberal Democracy (Pluralism, Elitism, Corporatism)
6. Critiques of Liberal Democracy
7. Radical Alternatives to Liberal Democracy (Rousseau and the General Will; Marxist alternatives; Feminist alternatives)
8. Democracy in the Age of Crises (Populism, Climate Crisis, Economic and Geopolitical Threats).

Activities and Methodology

The dedication of the student to this subject is divided into various types of activities, each with a certain number of hours of work.

The directed activities are activities in the classroom with the presence of the teacher and will consist mainly of lectures, followed by discussion sessions of the compulsory readings and oriented to practical questions, in which cases, problems and examples related to the subject will be analyzed. These activities represent 35% of the total work required.

The supervised activities are activities that should be completed by the students outside the classroom according to a work plan designed and subsequently tutored and evaluated by the teacher. These activities are orientated towards the writing of the essay. These activities represent 10% of the dedication of the students.

The autonomous activities are all those that are carried out by student on their own with basic and complementary readings, study of the class notes or all those other activities that complement the learning process that is associated with this course. They represent 55%.

At the end of the semester, 15 minutes will be reserved to complete the teacher evaluation survey.

Annotation: Within the schedule set by the centre or degree programme, 15 minutes of one class will be reserved for students to evaluate their lecturers and their courses or modules through questionnaires.

Assessment

Continuous Assessment Activities

Title	Weighting	Hours	ECTS	Learning Outcomes
Assessments (3)	30%	6	0.24	1, 2, 3, 4, 6, 7, 8
Attendance, participation in debates	10%	10	0.4	1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8
Brief oral presentation of essay	20%	2	0.08	4, 6, 7
Final exam	40%	2	0.08	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9

Evaluation

Assessment - continuous modality

The evaluation of this subject is made up of the following parts:

- A final exam that represents 40% of the mark. It is a necessary condition to pass the subject to pass this exam.
- Three assessments, the value of which will be 30% of the final grade for the subject.
- An essay that represents 20% of the final mark. The handing in of the essay is essential to pass the subject.
- Participation in seminars. Participation will be evaluated on the basis of the handing in of an exercise at the end of each seminar (10%).

The professor responsible for the subject will set the dates for these assessments to be carried out on the first day of class, always according to the academic calendar set by the Faculty.

To participate in the recovery, the students must have been previously assessed in a set of activities, the weight of which must be at least equivalent to a minimum of 2/3 parts of the total qualification.

The only part of the assessment that can be recovered is the final exam.

Students will obtain a Not assessed/Not submitted course grade unless they have submitted more than 1/3 of the assessment items.

In the event of a student committing any irregularity that may lead to a significant variation in the grade awarded to an assessment activity, the student will be given a zero for this activity, regardless of any disciplinary process that may take place. In the event of several irregularities in assessment activities of the same subject, the student will be given a zero as the final grade for this subject.

Assessment - single modality

The single assessment consists of the following:

- the handing in of a final essay(20%)
- an oral exam on compulsory lectures (30%)
- a final exam on the topics studied during the semester (50%)

The professor responsible for the subject will set the dates for these assessments on the first day of class, always according to the academic calendar set by the Faculty

All three parts of the appraisal are recoverable.

To participate in the recovery, the students have to have all the necessary supplies.

In the event of a student committing any irregularity that may lead to a significant variation in the grade awarded to an assessment activity, the student will be given a zero for this activity, regardless of any disciplinary process that may take place. In the event of several irregularities in assessment activities of the same subject, the student will be given a zero as the final grade for this subject.
