Prerequisites

- The students need to have acquired the competences of the area of study of their respective degrees and master them.
- The students need to be able to communicate information, ideas, problems and solutions to an academic audience either acquainted with the field or not.
- The students need to know how to apply the knowledge required for their profession and be able to produce arguments relevant to their area of study.
- The students need to collect and analyze relevant data to produce arguments and reflections on particular subjects with a social, scientific or ethical angle.

Objectives and Contextualisation

The objective of this module is to give an overview of the diversity of methods of literary investigation, so that the students get acquainted with the essential premises of academic research and the different strategies of approaching the literary and cultural phenomena. This will help them in their future research. For this reason, the course offers, firstly, an initial reflection on the epistemological problems that literary research entails; and secondly, it also offers the opportunity to apply the acquired systems by inviting students to start drafting their own projects which may become their master's dissertation.

Competences

- Analyse the historical processes of theory of literature and comparative literature, basing the analysis on paradigm shifts.
- Apply the different theoretical and generic models to text analysis and interpretation.
- Apply the ideological foundations of cultural analysis to the different areas of literary criticism and comparativist studies.
- Evaluate current applications of comparative literature based on the historical processes it has followed.
- Examine the ideological foundations of cultural representations of gender and sexuality.
- Examine the main theoretical currents in history of the theory of literature.

- Interpret, in accordance with the principal analysis methodologies, the thematic and symbolic contents of the work in terms of its rhetorical and pragmatic strategies.
- Make creative, original contributions to the comparativist study of literary and cultural texts.
- Organise, plan and manage projects.
- Present research findings to experts and non-experts.
- Reason critically based on analysis and synthesis.
- Work in an interdisciplinary team in different contexts.

Learning Outcomes

1. Analyse and apply the principles and methods of cultural analysis, by establishing links with theoretical and critical approaches, to a variety of literary and cultural texts.
2. Analyse and apply the principles and methods of current theoretical, critical and comparativist approaches to different aspects of the processes of literary, artistic and cultural representation.
3. Apply different theories in search of a thematic interpretation that takes formal and pragmatic strategies into account.
4. Apply the principles and methods of current comparativist approaches to the international, intertextual and intercultural variety of literary, artistic and cultural representation.
5. Apply the principles and methods of recent theoretical currents related to new historicism, polysystems theory, the sociology of literature, the Chicago school, neo-rhetorics, etc.
6. Apply these theories to the analysis of cultural texts.
7. Compare specific literary modes or genres, comparing their development and peculiarities in the modern and post-modern periods.
8. Critically analyse the different theoretical approaches to gender and sexuality studies.
9. Organise, plan and manage projects.
10. Present research findings to experts and non-experts.
11. Reason critically based on analysis and synthesis.
12. Use the theoretical, critical and comparative approach to the study of cultural texts and products such as narrations and films.
13. Work in an interdisciplinary team in different contexts.

Activities and Methodology

Title	Hours	ECTS	Learning Outcomes
-------	-------	------	-------------------

Type: Directed

Seminars	60	2.4	8, 1, 4, 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, 12, 11, 13
Type: Supervised
One-to-one meeting	25	1	1, 6, 10, 9, 11
Supervision of the elaboration of a research project	40	1.6	1, 6, 10, 9, 11
Type: Autonomous
Bibliographical research and study of canonical/critical texts.	60	2.4	8, 4, 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, 11
Reviews on the content of the course	50	2	8, 1, 4, 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, 10, 12, 9, 11

The course is structured in seminars and debates on the texts being discussed. The students will have to show and identify the basic theoretical concepts of contemporary critical methods in a number of examples and case studies. In parallel to the seminars, the students will structure their hypotheses in one-to-one meetings with their tutor addressing the written assignments of the course. It is very important for the assessment the realization of an oral presentation on the first draft of the students' future research. Their object of study, methodology, research plan and the general interest of their work will be open to discussion with the rest of the class. Afterwards, the students will hand in a written report of the outcome and success of their presentation, considering their peers' observations and how to address them appropriately in the future project.

Annotation: Within the schedule set by the centre or degree programme, 15 minutes of one class will be reserved for students to evaluate their lecturers and their courses or modules through questionnaires.

Assessment

Continuous Assessment Activities

Title	Weighting	Hours	ECTS	Learning Outcomes
Attendance and active participation in the seminars and class debates.	10%	2	0.08	8, 1, 4, 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, 10, 12, 11, 13
Oral presentation of a personal research project	20 %	1	0.04	1, 10, 9, 11, 13
Review of a critical work relevant to the students' area of study	20 %	6	0.24	8, 1, 4, 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, 10, 12, 11
Written appraisal of the basic concepts of the module	30 %	3	0.12	8, 1, 4, 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, 12, 11
Written report of the outcomes of oral presentation	20 %	3	0.12	1, 6, 10, 9, 11, 13

The students will successfully pass the module by

- 1) attending and participating in the seminars (10%)
- 2) a written exam on the main theoretical concepts of the first unit (30%)

- 3) a review of a critical work (20%)
- 4) Oral presentation on a personal research project (20%)
- 5) Written report on the outcomes of it (20%)

Students who do not attend the written exam and the oral presentation, will be considered as "not evaluable".

In the event of a student committing any irregularity that may lead to a significant variation in the grade awarded to an assessment activity, the student will be given a zero for this activity, regardless of any disciplinary process that may take place. In the event of several irregularities in assessment activities of the same subject, the student will be given a zero as the final grade for this subject.

In the same way, those assessment acts in which there have been irregularities (copying, unauthorized use of AI, etc.) are not recoverable.

On carrying out each evaluation activity, lecturers will inform students (on Moodle or e-mail) of the procedures to be followed for reviewing all grades awarded, and the date on which such a review will take place.

Unique assessment

The subject foresees a single assessment system (on a date announced at the beginning of the academic period) and consists of three pieces of evidence: a theoretical questionnaire (worth 30% of the overall mark), the comment of a critical text (30%) and a reasoned proposal for a research project (40%). The same assessment system will apply eventually as with the continuous assessment.
