11. Using the characteristic computing resources of the field of History.
12. Working in teams respecting the other's points of view.

Content

Objectives: We will focus on themes that are fundamental for the interpretation of all contemporaneity, and not just in the nineteenth century. In this sense, we will deal with several problems such as the birth of modern politics in the transit of the Enlightenment to the liberal revolution; We will study the emergence of insurrectionary cultures and long-term violence; We will define the new political concepts and ideological universes that have a foundational character (liberalism, traditionalism, democracy, republicanism, federalism, socialism); At the same time, we will address the emergence of new social categories, cultural practices and forms of representation (bourgeois / village dichotomies, parasitic classes / producer classes, the sociability of the casino and the tavern, the new public opinion and the world of the press, the pamphlet and the political songwriter), and we will reflect on a phenomenon as decisive as the formation of the new Spanish State of a unitary nature. At the end of each section, we will mention the most recent contributions and historiographic debates. The contents of the subject will be sensitive to the gender perspective, such as the participation of women in the beginnings of the liberal revolution, conflicts with Queen Isabel II and their actions in public and private spaces, as well as the construction of the new male and female bourgeois models.

1. Radiography of Spain around 1800. The limits of enlightened reformism. Crisis and tensions in the society of the Old Regime.
2. War and Revolution (1808-1814). Boards and guerrillas, propaganda and everyday life. Las Cortes de Cádiz and the Constitution of 1812. The new political culture. Affrancesation and collaborationism. The construction of a national memory and the acts of the Bicentennial.
3. Absolutism and liberalism (1814-1833). Restoration and bankruptcy of the Absolute Monarchy (1814-1820). The liberal politicization in the Triennium (1820-1823). The failure of absolutist reformism and the disintegration of the system (1824-1833). Balance of American independence.
4. "It is not possible to go back": The culmination of the process of the liberal Revolution (1834-1845). The Royal Statute. The new political system, parties and factions. The revolutionary process of 1835-1836 and the Constitution of 1837. Carlism and the long civil war. Democrats and Republicans. The progressism and the Regency of Spartero.
5. The triumph of oligarchic liberalism (1844-1854). The formation of the centralist state and the new administration. The Church and political Catholicism. The Progressive Biennial (1854-1856), the Liberal Union and the democratic and republican revolution of 1868-73. The Cuban war, the cantonalism and the new Carlism.
6. The bourgeois society and the development of capitalism (1808-1874). The agricultural problem, the dissolution of the stately regime and the confiscations. The debate about weaknesses and Spanish anomalies (industrial revolution, political and cultural nationalization). Old and new social categories: aristocracy, middle classes and people. The social conflict, the rejection of quintos and consumptions, the workers' work and the movements of peasant resistance. Romantic culture, sociability and political cultures.

* We recommend doing in the third year the subject "The era of Enlightenment", as well as the subject "History of Spain II: From the Monarchy to the Republic."

Contemporary History of Spain I. The period of the liberal revolution.

Continued Assessment:

1) Two written tests:

The first test will take place at the middle of the course (evaluation 25%).

It will deal with the topic worked on during the midterm. Four questions. One of them will deal with a compulsory reading article posted on the Virtual Campus.

The second written test will take place at the end of the course (Valuation 25%).

It will deal with the topic worked on during the second part of the course. Four questions. One of them will deal with a compulsory reading article posted on the Virtual Campus.

Important: The average of these two tests must be passed positively (at least a 5).

2) Practicals:

Oral presentation (individual or collective), based on the reading of an article. The outline of the article must be delivered at the end of the course in the form of a poster (value 15%).

3) Paper:

Questionnaire of secondary sources in the form of articles available on the internet or monographs. Work to be defined at the beginning of the course and complemented with the use of primary sources (visits to archives, documentation centers or sources available on the internet). Maximum 8 pages. Valuation 25%. Due date: coinciding with the second partial, at the end of the course.

Obligatory: In order to do the assignment, the objectives and work plan must be established during the first three weeks of the course in visits to the office and in tutoring hours. Otherwise, it will be considered non-assessable.

4) Participation, attendance, follow-up and participation in classroom work with diverse documentation -reading the dossier and articles-, as well as in the tutorials in the professor's office (total 10%).

Only the evaluation activities handed in within the terms established by the professor of the course will be recovered; in any case it will be possible to present an exercise for the first time during the Recovery test.

The practices or work (and the participation, attendance and progress), are not recovered.

The copy of written sources (using Artificial Intelligence, internet, other people's work, etc.) will suppose a 0 in the qualification of the exercise and the student will lose the call of the total of the course. All work will be presented in "paper" format.

The date of the recovery is unique and fixed by the Academic Management.

Single Evaluation:

It will consist of the sum of a single Written Test (50%), plus the delivery of a Paper (Questionnaire) (35%), and the completion of a Practical (Poster) (15%).

Written Test:

It will deal with the subject corresponding to the program of the course. Throughout the course I will post texts to the Virtual Campus. These articles, all of them also available online, will be compulsory reading. Some of the questions in the written test will be related to these articles (50% grade).

Questionnaire:

Written from secondary sources from articles available on the internet or from monographs in book form. Work to be defined at the beginning of the course and complemented with the use of primary sources (visits to archives, documentation centers or sources available on the internet). Maximum 8 pages. Valuation 35%. Date of delivery: coinciding with the written test and with the second partial of the students of continuous assessment, at the end of the course.

Obligatory: In order to do the assignment, the objectives and work plan must be fixed during the first three weeks of the course in visits to the office and in tutoring hours. Otherwise, it will be considered non-assessable.

Poster:

Delivery of a poster on a topic that must include lectures and that will be indicated at the beginning of the course. Valuation of 15%.

The copying of written sources (using Artificial Intelligence, internet, other people's work, etc.) will result in a 0 in the grade of the exercise and the student will lose the whole course. All work will be presented in "paper" format.

The date of the recovery is unique and fixed by the Academic Management.

On carrying out each evaluation activity, lecturers will inform students (on Campus Virtual o Sigma) of the procedures to be followed for reviewing all grades awarded, and the date on which such a review will take place.

To participate in the make-up program, students must either be previously assessed on a set of activities, the weight of which is equivalent to at least two-thirds of the total grade (CONTINUOUS ASSESSMENT) or submit all the planned activities (SINGLE ASSESSMENT). In both cases (continuous and single assessment), to participate in the make-up process, the teacher in charge will require a minimum grade of 3.5 on the final average. In cases where this is not achieved, the student will fail the subject and will not be eligible for make-up.

Students who do not take all the exams or do not take the compulsory assessment activities for more than 66% of the final mark, will be graded as NOT EVALUABLE and will not be able to take the make-up exam.

In the event of a student committing any irregularity that may lead to a significant variation in the grade awarded to an assessment activity, the student will be given a zero for this activity, regardless of any disciplinary process that may take place. In the event of several irregularities in assessment activities of the same subject, the student will be given a zero as the final grade for this subject.

This subject allows the use of AI technologies exclusively for support tasks such as bibliographic or content-based searches. The student must clearly identify which parts have been generated using AI technology, specify the tools used, and include a critical reflection on how these have influenced the process and final outcome of the activity. Lack of transparency regarding the use of AI in the assessed activity will be considered academic dishonesty; the corresponding grade may be lowered, or the work may even be awarded a zero. In cases of greater infringement, more serious action may be taken.
