Objectives and Contextualisation

This course offers a practical introduction to the study of Catalan philology within its European context. The syllabus includes historical background and skills which are necessary for the student's progress throughout the four-year degree, both in literary and language subjects - modern linguistics is not included. Teaching on the basics of Catalan philology will be interspersed with practice on essay writing. A handbook with a set of rules on grammar and writing (and the corresponding exercises) will be provided so that students may improve on their initial skills by practicing on their own.

By the end of the course students should be able to write an essay on any of the core topics surveyed along the year. A good command of orthography and grammar rules is of the essence to qualify for final assessment.

Lectures will provide students with grammar tuition (based on a dossier which includes the most frequent errors) and abundant practical exercises to be solved in the classroom or at home. Essay-writing practice will rely on a selection of texts (included in the dossier) which deal with topics both related to language and literature. Assessment of essays will also take into account the student's command of Catalan grammar.

The calendar will be available on the first day of class. Students will find all information on the Virtual Campus: the description of the activities, teaching materials, and any necessary information for the proper follow-up of the subject.

Annotation: Within the schedule set by the centre or degree programme, 15 minutes of one class will be reserved for students to evaluate their lecturers and their courses or modules through questionnaires.

Assessment

Students will be assessed by means of oral presentations and debate (10%), exercises and essays (30%), a mid-course exam (10%), a project of critical edition in group (20%) and a final exam (30%). All assignments must be submitted in due course.

Students will obtain a Not assessed/Not submitted course grade unless they have submitted more than 30% of the assessment items.

Students will receive (via Moodle) prior notice of the date and all relevant information concerning their right to review any assessment item with their teacher.

Previous evaluation of a set of activities equivalent to two thirds of the total value of the assignments, and a final mark between 3.5 and 4.9 is required to opt for reassessment. Students will be reassessed by means of a synthesis test of the two previous exams. Students who pass the reassessment will obtain a 5.0 mark.

In the event of a student committing any irregularity that may lead to a significant variation in the grade awarded to an assessment activity, the student will be given a zero for this activity, regardless of any disciplinary process that may take place. In the event of several irregularities in assessment activities of the same subject, the student will be given a zero as the final grade for this subject.

The use of Artificial Intelligence (AI) technologies is not allowed. Any work that includes fragments generated with AI will be considered a lack of academic honesty and may lead to a partial or total penalty in the grade of the activity, or more serious sanctions.
