Prerequisites

None.

Objectives and Contextualisation

This is a compulsory module whose main objective is to describe, analyse and present a selection of books for children and young people with a high educational value to educate literature readers. The criteria for the selection and evaluation of children's books of narrative, poetry, picturebooks and books of knowledge will be treated, as well as the underlying social values and ideology in literary texts.

Learning Outcomes

1. CA02 (Competence) Adopt quality criteria to evaluate the selection of children's and young people's books for schools, libraries and reading promotion projects.
2. CA03 (Competence) Plan interdisciplinary didactic proposals that include the selection of a corpus appropriate to the learning or reading promotion objectives and the necessary planning for their development (activities, assessment strategies, material resources and mediation guides) in specific school and social environments.
3. KA04 (Knowledge) Critically describe the current theoretical reflections and debates in the field of children's and young people's books and their importance in terms of events to promote reading.
4. KA05 (Knowledge) Recognise the essential tasks involved in undertaking literary mediation work, while considering conversation and motivation strategies in contexts involving children, young people, or adults.
5. KA06 (Knowledge) Identify needs in relation to literary reading and knowledge-building books in schools and social contexts where literary mediation occurs.
6. SA05 (Skill) Assess children's and young people's books and teaching resources based on quality criteria (textual, communicative, and linguistic) while considering the parameters of different artistic systems (visual, textual, multimodal), as well as diversity and inclusion.
7. SA06 (Skill) Propose children's and young people's books and fiction and non-fiction resources appropriate to the different types of target audience (children, young people, adults, families, etc.) and to the specific objectives of the educational intervention or reading promotion activity.

8. SA07 (Skill) Develop strategies for innovation and creativity in the field of school libraries, activities to promote literary reading and the design of teaching resources.

Content

1. Current types of print and digital books for children and adolescents.
2. Analysis of books for children and adolescents as artistic systems, as marketing products and as socialisation instruments and tools to construct cultural identities.
3. Criteria to select books for different ages and educational goals.
4. Social values and ideology in children's and young literature.

Activities and Methodology

Title	Hours	ECTS	Learning Outcomes
Type: Directed
Active participation in the activities proposed in class.	18	0.72
Type: Supervised
Participation in online debate forums, elaboration of course assignments and participation in the activities proposed in class.	36	1.44
Type: Autonomous
Reading the articles and materials related to the contents covered in the course. Reading a selection of books for children and adolescents.	96	3.84

The course combines theory and practice. Teacher-centred lessons will introduce the contents necessary to take part in practical activities to be carried in groups in the classroom. Outside the classroom, participants will be expected to read the compulsory course readings and to elaborate individual assignments.

Assignments will include the analysis, selection and assessment of works from different parameters.

Online and face-to-face assignments must be elaborated using some sort of ICT tool.

Our teaching approach and assessment procedures may be altered if public health authorities impose new restrictions on public gatherings.

Annotation: Within the schedule set by the centre or degree programme, 15 minutes of one class will be reserved for students to evaluate their lecturers and their courses or modules through questionnaires.

Assessment

Continuous Assessment Activities

Title	Weighting	Hours	ECTS	Learning Outcomes
Puzzle of the classics of children's literature and TOP 10 (individual)	30%	0	0	CA02, KA05, SA05
Reading animation of a picturebook (group work)	30%	0	0	CA02, CA03, KA05, KA06, SA06, SA07
Selection and analysis of a corpus of books (work in pairs)	20%	0	0	CA02, KA05, SA05, SA06
Two reflection forums based on theoretical readings (individual)	20%	0	0	KA04, KA06

Course Assignments

Class attendance is mandatory. In order to obtain a positive final evaluation, the student must attend a minimum of 80% of all the classes.

Students must demonstrate good general communicative skills, both orally and in writing, and a good command of the language described in the course guide. Therefore, all activities (individual and group) will take into account linguistic accuracy, writing, and formal presentation. Students must be able to express themselves fluently and correctly and demonstrate a high level of understanding of academic texts.

Activities will be carried out:

1. Analysis of the traits found in current literary works targeted at children and adolescents.
2. Assessment of literary works according to their function for school literary learning.
3. Selection of books for use at school or in other instances of reading promotion of children's and youth books.
4. Participation in classroom activities and virtual forums according to the guidelines established in the program.

The evaluation will be carried out from the delivered activities, which will be valued by the teaching staff.

Participation in the classroom will also be considered. In the activities, the readings of each topic should be used.

To benefit from the continuous evaluation, the student must present all the activities and pass them by 80%. Otherwise, it will be considered "Not Presented" (NP).

The review and reassessment procedure of the tests will be carried out individually. The reflection forums (individual) and the selection and analysis of a corpus of books may be reassessed on November 12th.

Single Assessment

In the case of opting for the single assessment, the same evaluation and reassessment system will be applied as for the continuous evaluation, but the written submissions and oral presentations will be made in a single day (November 5). None of these deliveries will receive formative evaluation because opting for the single assessment implies giving up continuous evaluation. In the case of the single evaluation, an evaluation interview is added to the set of activities that are evaluated. Therefore, in the case of opting for the single evaluation, the tests that will be evaluated will be the following:

Written and/or oral presentation of the analysis and evaluations of works of children's and youth literature: 20%

Written and/or oral reflections (individual): 20%

Written and/or oral analysis of the group project: 20%

Individual Top Ten module project: 20%

Evaluation interview: 20%

Reassessment

The same reassessment system will be applied as for the continuous evaluation.

The reassessment will take place on November 12th and the reassessment will consist of an oral presentation and/or a written exam, depending on whether the suspended part is the theoretical part or practice.

Dates for handing in assignments in continuous assessment:

8/10: Reflection forums (individual)

15/10: Selection and evaluation of a corpus of books (in pairs).

05/11: Reading animation of a picturebook (group work)

12/11: Individual interventions in the Top Ten literary conversation (individual).

Feedback on the activities will be returned within 15 working days.

In this course, the use of Artificial Intelligence (AI) technologies is permitted as an integral part of the assignment, provided that the final result reflects a significant contribution by the student in analysis and personal reflection. Students must clearly identify which sections were generated with this technology, specify the tools used, and include a critical reflection on how they influenced the process and final outcome of the assignment. Lack of transparency in the use of AI will be considered academic dishonesty and may result in a penalty on the assignment grade, or greater sanctions in serious cases.
