Prerequisites

As a subject of the first year of the Degree in Labour Relations, Constitutional Law does not require any previous knowledge or prerequisites. Anyway, it is recommended students make a review of the baccalaureate's Social Sciences subjects related to current historic, legal or political issues.

The teaching of the subject will be taught fully from the perspective of the Objectives of Sustainable Development.

Objectives

This is a subject located in the first half of the first year and, consequently, a basic one. Its content is developed from the Spanish Constitution of 1978 and its consideration as supreme law of our legal system. The Constitution has been studied from different disciplines, such as Political Science, Philosophy, Sociology or History. For its part, Constitutional Law makes a legal methodological approach that includes the study of: the Constitution as supreme Law, the sources of Law, the government institutions, the citizens' rights and liberties and the State structure.

The subject provides the basic knowledge about the construction of our democratic system from the normative point of view. Within this framework, the objective is make students able to understand critically the constitutional structure of the political system and the legal system around three basic concepts: who has the power (the legitimacy of the people), how is the power (the division of powers) and for which power is exercised (the defence and guarantee of citizens' rights).

Therefore, the objectives of the subject are:

- a) To provide a basic knowledge of the Spanish Constitutional Law.
- b) To understand the historical genesis of the Constitution and its contribution to the implementation of democracy in Spain.

c) To contextualize the Spanish Constitution in Comparative Law, in particular the European framework.

d) To obtain a theoretical knowledge about the legitimacy of power, division of powers, its exercise and the guarantee of the citizens' rights and the territorial structure of the State.

e) To demonstrate theoretical knowledge through written work and oral presentations.

The learning process focuses on the work of the student, who learns working individually and in groups, the mission of the teaching staff being to help them in this task by providing information and showing them the techniques and sources where it can be obtained.

The development of teaching of the subject and student training is based on the following activities:

1. Directed activities:

1.1. Lectures classes/ theoretical classes: where students achieve through the transmission of knowledge of the teacher the conceptual bases of the subject and assume the legal, regulatory and jurisprudential framework.

1.2. Seminar / practical classes: as a learning space where students assume a preferably active role, together with the teacher, to analyze and interpret previously elaborated questions, issues or cases in order to develop and consolidate the essential content explained in the theoretical classes.

2. Supervised activities: These are activities that students will develop in the classroom, with the supervision and support of the teacher. It is the solution of some practical assumption in the classroom, the elaboration of some records of sentences and / or regulations, or the realization of outlines or written drafting of some epigraphs of the subject or of complementary readings of monographs or doctrinal articles.

3. Autonomous activities: these are activities in which the student organizes time and effort autonomously, either individually or in groups.

3.1 Study of the subject.

3.2 Preparation of documents of practical activities: which will be delivered and analyzed in the classroom. These are practical cases proposed in advance by the teacher or the preparation of critical reviews of books and readings or files of jurisprudence, regulations, or films.

3.3 Search of bibliography, jurisprudence, and materials for the resolution of practical cases, complementing theoretical questions

3.4. Preparation of course work, reports, etc

The teaching of the subject will be mixed: The Lectures classes/ theoretical classes will be virtual, and the seminars / classroom practices will be face-to-face.

Attendance at seminars, except in justified cases, will be compulsory for students

The teaching methodology and the evaluation may have some modification depending on the circumstances and especially on the restrictions to the attendance established by the health authorities.

Annotation: within the schedule set by the centre or degree programme, 15 minutes of one class will be reserved for students to evaluate their lecturers and their courses or modules through questionnaires.

Assessment

Continuous assessment activities

Title	Weight	Hours	ECTS	Learning outcomes
Preparation of reviews, book criticism, reading control, worksheets jurisprudence, legislation or videos or films. made in a way individual or group	5%	7	0.28	1, 2, 3, 4, 5
Realization of Individual or group course work on a topic related to the subject and the public presentation	25%	10	0.4	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6
Written Exam - Final Exam	50%	2	0.08	1, 2, 3, 4, 5
Carrying out individual or group practices: Continuous assessment	10%	15	0.6	1, 2, 3, 4, 5
Active participation and quality of the interventions in the debates and	10%	6	0.24	1, 2, 3, 4,

Competences in these subjects may be assessed through: (1) exams; (2) the preparation of individual or group projects whose presentation may be oral or written at the teacher's discretion; (3) resolution of practical cases and (4) class participation. The evaluation system must take into account:

- Written tests (exams): there will be a final exam for the whole subject to check the overall acquisition of skills, abilities and knowledge, which will have a weight of 50% of the grade.
- The realization of practical cases (reports, reviews, legal writings, opinions...) individually or in groups will have an overall weight of 10% of the grade.
- The individual or group completion of work on a topic that is the subject of the subject or related to it and the public presentation, will have a weight of 25%.
- Attendance and participation in class. This is active participation throughout the subject, of quality, legally based, appropriate and relevant to the topics discussed, and different from that carried out in practical classes. It will have a weight of 10%.
- Elaboration of reviews, criticism of books, jurisprudence files, regulations, videos or films. It will have a weight of 5%

The teacher of each group at the beginning of the course will present the program of the subject provided in this guide, indicating the topics that will be covered. It will also present the schedule of teaching and practical activities, and specify the continuous evaluation system and set the percentage assigned to each of the activities, as well as the reevaluation system for suspended activities. These directions will be displayed on the virtual campus /Moodle.

A student who copies or attempts to copy a final exam will receive a 0 on the exam. A student who submits an assignment in which there is plagiarism will receive a 0 and will receive a warning. In case of repetition, the student will suspend the subject.

UNIQUE ASSESSMENT In the case of a single assessment, on the day set for the assessment, a theoretical exam (50% weight in the grade), a practical exam (25% weight in the grade) and a paper on an object subject will be required of the subject and the public presentation (25% weight in the grade). For recovery: the same recovery system as for continuous assessment will be applied.

Students will be assessed as long as they have completed a set of activities whose weight is equivalent to a minimum of 2/3 of the total qualification for the subject. If the value of the activities carried out does not reach this limit, the professor of the subject may consider the student as not evaluable.

The use of Artificial Intelligence (AI) technologies is permitted exclusively in support tasks, such as bibliographic or information searches, text correction or translations. The student must clearly identify which parts have been generated with this technology, specify the tools used and include a critical reflection on how these have influenced the process and the final result of the activity. The lack of transparency in the use of AI in this assessable activity will be considered a lack of academic honesty and may lead to a partial or total penalty in the activity grade, or greater sanctions in serious cases.
