Prerequisites

Students are expected to have a C1 level of English according to the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR) to follow the course as well as oral and written English academic skills.

Previous knowledge of linguistics is necessary to be able to follow this subject. In particular, knowledge of English grammar and of general and English phonetics will facilitate following the content of this subject.

Objectives

The aim of this course is to analyse theoretical approaches to the teaching of foreign languages and English in particular, to become familiar with the most relevant teaching and learning techniques, to analyse various teaching contexts and factors that may play a role, and to assess the importance and role of pronunciation in foreign language learning and the most effective pronunciation teaching methods.

Learning outcomes

- CA22 (Formulate research proposals to correct gender inequalities in English as a foreign language teaching and learning environments.) Formulate research proposals to correct gender inequalities in English as a foreign language teaching and learning environments.
- CA26 (Create teaching sequences and innovative educational material to teach English as a foreign language.) Create teaching sequences and innovative educational material to teach English as a foreign language.

- CA27 (Design activities and questionnaires to evaluate the impact of English as a foreign language teaching programmes.) Design activities and questionnaires to evaluate the impact of English as a foreign language teaching programmes.
- KA28 (Identify the main theoretical approaches to the study of learning and teaching English as a foreign language.) Identify the main theoretical approaches to the study of learning and teaching English as a foreign language.
- KA29 (Relate theoretical concepts and approaches to teaching and classroom management practices in English as a foreign language teaching and learning contexts.) Relate theoretical concepts and approaches to teaching and classroom management practices in English as a foreign language teaching and learning contexts.
- SA35 (Organise data collected in EFL teaching and learning environments based on codification.) Organise data collected in EFL teaching and learning environments based on codification.
- SA36 (Analyse different management practices both in the classroom and in teaching planning when teaching English as a foreign language.) Analyse different management practices both in the classroom and in teaching planning when teaching English as a foreign language.
- SA37 (Examine the different individual factors that impact teaching and learning English as a foreign language.) Examine the different individual factors that impact teaching and learning English as a foreign language.
- SA38 (Use tools for analysing data collected in EFL teaching and learning environments.) Use tools for analysing data collected in EFL teaching and learning environments.

Contents

The course is structured around two main issues: a general introduction to the teaching of foreign languages and the teaching of grammar (topics 1, 2, and 3; taught by Dr. Elisabet Pladevall, from February 2 to March 4) and the teaching of the pronunciation of a foreign language (topics 1, 4 and 5; taught by Dr. Juli Cebrian, from March 9 to April 15).

Content

1. Basic concepts in the study of the learning and teaching foreign languages.
2. Approaches and methodologies in the teaching of foreign languages.
3. The teaching of grammar.
4. Relevant theories and key factors in the learning and teaching of pronunciation.
5. Approaches and techniques for teaching the different features of English pronunciation (consonants and vowels, accent, rhythm, intonation).

Learning activities and methodology

Title	Hours	ECTS	Learning outcomes
Readings and discussion	20	0.8

Lectures	15	0.6
Assignments	30	1.2
Homework exercises, reading and study	20	0.8
Practical sessions	15	0.6

Master classes and practical classes, readings and discussion, homework exercises, exercises done in class and/or in the laboratory, discussion of exercises and assignments, class presentations, data collection and analysis.

Annotation: within the schedule set by the centre or degree programme, 15 minutes of one class will be reserved for students to evaluate their lecturers and their courses or modules through questionnaires.

Assessment

Continuous assessment activities

Title	Weight	Hours	ECTS	Learning outcomes
Final papers or exams	50%	10	0.4	CA22, CA26, CA27, KA28, KA29, SA35, SA36, SA37, SA38
Assignments	40%	8	0.32	CA26, CA27, KA29, SA35, SA36, SA37
Practical activities and class participation	10%	7	0.28	CA22, KA28, SA36

- Final papers or exams: 50% (at the end of the term)
- Assignments: 40% (throughout the course)
- Practical activities and class participation: 10% (throughout the course)

Students are required to complete all the assignments and final papers or exams to pass the course.

Students will obtain a Not assessed/Not submitted course grade if they have not completed more than 30% of the assessment items.

Exam or paper review procedure: on carrying out each assessment activity, lecturers will inform students (on Moodle) of the procedures to be followed for reviewing all grades awarded, and the date on which such a review will take place.

Reassessment

The reassessment of this subject will be carried out item by item with the following conditions:

- Students must have completed a minimum of two thirds of the assessment items and must have an average course grade of at least 3.5 out of 10.

IMPORTANT: PLAGIARISING consists of copying text from unacknowledged sources -whether this is part of a sentence or a whole text- with the intention of passing it off as the student's own production. It includes cutting and pasting from internet sources, presented unmodified in the student's own text. Plagiarising is a SERIOUS OFFENCE. Students must respect authors' intellectual property, always identifying the sources they may use; they must also be responsible for the originality and authenticity of their own texts.

This subject allows the use of AI technologies exclusively for support tasks such as bibliographic or information-based searches, and the creation of materials such as images, where applicable. In that case, the student must clearly (i) identify which parts have been generated using AI technology and (ii) specify the tools used.

Lack of transparency regarding the use of AI in the assessed activity will be considered academic dishonesty; the corresponding grade may be lowered, or the work may even be awarded a zero. In cases of greater infringement, more serious action may be taken.

In the event of a student committing any irregularity that may lead to a significant variation in the grade awarded to an assessment activity, the student will be given a zero for this activity, regardless of any disciplinary process that may take place. In the event of several irregularities in assessment activities of the same subject, the student will be given a zero as the final grade for this subject. Irregularities refer, for instance, to copying in an exam, copying from sources without indicating authorship, or a misuse of AI such as presenting work as original that has been generated by an AI tool or programme. These evaluation activities will not be re-assessed.

Important note for exchange students (Erasmus, etc.) on exams and other tests. Erasmus students who request to bring forward an exam or any other type of assessment activity must present the teacher with an official document from their home university justifying their request.

Single evaluation

Students opting for a single evaluation of the subject will be assessed by means of a final paper or exam (50% of the final mark) and two practical assignments (40% of the final mark). The date of the single-assessment exam and of the submission of the paper or assignments will generally coincide with the date for the final exam or last assignment submission in the continuous assessment. Reassessment will follow the same conditions as in continuous assessment.
