Co-Creation Workshop in Seville

The UrBIOFuture Consortium, the Working Group, and the Industrial Expert Group will join in Seville on October 17 for the Co-Creation Workshop that is being organized by CTA. The session will serve to analyse the results of the UrBIOfuture Survey and to introduce the first ideas of the "UrBIOFuture experience".

The UrBIOfuture Survey was launched in July with the aim to understand the future educational needs of the BIO industrial sector by 2030, to assess if current educational systems are addressing those needs and, therefore, to contribute to a more accurate alignment between educational institutions and the sector's needs.

Shaping the Europe of Tomorrow Workshop

On September 18, Sustainable Innovations Europe (SIE) held its first Circular Economy workshop in Brussels: Shaping the Europe of Tomorrow. The session aimed at boosting European cooperation to promote Circular Economy research and innovation, and it counted with the participation of 30 organizations from 13 different countries.

During the workshop, several projects were presented, UrBIOFuture among them. Participants shared their approaches and best practices, and they began the development of new proposals with idea generation and technical concept notes.
