The Early Nineties -- A View of the Bodley Head by James G. Nelson, $15 fm Harvard Univ. Press, Cambridge, Mass. is the type of bk this ed enjoys & the type of bk that univ presses are ideally suited to publish but rarely do. A history of the Bodley Head, its proprietors, its publishing ventures -- all in great & absorbing detail (appendices & notes take up pp 283-372, including figures on production costs of the Chiswick Press & their final inventory!). A handsome bk in silver that lacks only blue-grey endpapers & some two-color printing to make it a modern univ equivalent of a Bodley Head bk. The real life equivalent to Bodley Head today is Black Sparrow, of course. Bk has some needless repetition & re-explantations in the middle chapters but not too annoying. Bk will be the last word on the London lit scene centered around Elkin Mathews & John Lane at the end of the last century.
