but the ceremony was delayed while some of the bride's cousins from Montana tried to lasso a giant, crazed brown bear just some hours fugitive from the nearby San Diego Zoo.

The priest was late too.
Some of the in-laws
got a bit touchy about raising his bail.

The couple were having their honeymoon in Kuwait.

"Dare to be different," they said.

We all cheered and waved the limo goodbye. Halfway out the park it got a flat tire.

Most of the guests rang the happy parents, the day after the wedding, to say they had had ...

food-poisoning.

OBSERVATION, NUMBER THREE

You can tell if a house is being rented by rock musicians by the number of empty pizza cartons out front on garbage day.

LA BREA TAR PITS OF THE MIND

The construction workers wolf whistle at the passing office girls, their leers setting in the concrete.
